Bus Line And Taxi Concerns Fight 25 Cent Taxi Fares

Want Common Council to Adopt Ordinance Fixing Minimum Rate of 50 Cents—Public Hearing Held Monday Evening by Laws and Rules Committee Largely Attended.

Twenty-eight of the local taxi concerns and the Kingston City Transportation Corporation, which operates the two city bus lines, are making a concerted fight to have the Common Council adopt an ordinance fixing the minimum taxi fare in the city at 50 cents for one or two persons, with an extra charge if a trip is made to Kingston Point. That fact was brought out at the public hearing on the proposed ordinance held by the laws and rules committee of the Common Council at the city hall on Monday evening when Attorney Andrew J. Cook appeared for the taxi concerns and Attorney Roscoe V. Elsworth for the bus corporation. Those who opposed the adoption of the ordinance were Judge Augustus Shufeldt, Mrs. Robert Lee McCausland and Andrew Ferguson.

Story of Ordinance

The proposed ordinance was introduced by the taxi men at a recent meeting of the Common Council and at that time was referred to the laws and rules committee which held the public hearing Monday night. It is expected that the committee will submit its report at the regular meeting of the council this evening.

For several years the taxi concerns in Kingston have been charging a minimum fare of 50 cents for one or two persons, and some time ago a new taxi concern entered the field charging a fare of 25 cents for one or two persons to any part of the city. This was the Roosa taxi business and it was shortly followed by the Circle Taxi Company while individual taxi drivers also fell into line and adopted the 25 cent fare. This led to the older established taxi concerns introducing the present proposed ordinance, which would abolish the 25 cent fare.

Cook Spoke First.

Attorney Cook was the first speaker of the evening. He said he represented twenty-eight taxi owners who favored the adoption of the ordinance. Mr. Cook said it was conceded that the council had the power to adopt the proposed ordinance.

The proposed ordinance affected those who made use of the public streets of the city. The state has long regulated bus lines, and Kingston in the past had adopted taxi regulations. Previous regulations had to do with a maximum charge; the present ordinance with a minimum charge.

Mr. Cook said the proposed ordinance should be adopted for the welfare of the people of the city. For years there had been a minimum charge of 50 cents. He said he did not blame people for wanting to ride for 25 cents, but there was another side to the picture. The older taxi concerns had been established for years and charging the minimum rate of 50 cents there was not a taxi concern who could be pointed out as growing rich out of that charge.

He said it was a question of whether we were going to continue to have the present excellent taxi service or one that will operate only during the favorable months for taxis. During December, January, February and March this city would be without adequate taxi service. The taxi men who wanted the ordinance adopted, he said, gave service twelve months in the year.

"Operating at a Loss."

Mr. Cook claimed that taxis were operated at a loss at a 25 cent fare. Mr. Cook said that the Central Hudson Gas & Electric Corporation operated a fleet of Ford cars and figured that is cost 7 6-10 cents a mile to operate each Ford car. This figure did not include the cost of paying the men who operated the cars.

The speaker said that the average taxi call in the city covered 3 7-10 miles and adopting the Central Hudson figures of 7 6-10 cents per mile you have a little over 27 cents a mile for operating expenses.

The average operator of a taxi received a minimum pay of $22 a week and work 12 hours a day, 7 days a week. This would amount to a trifle over $2 a day for his services, just barely over 25 cents an hour.

The average operator, he said, working over a period of 12 hours makes 20 calls, and the average call costs the owner of the taxi for operating a little over 15 cents.

In other words it cost the owner of the taxi over 42 cents per trip per call for operating expenses. Then many of the taxi concerns had offices to maintain and telephone service which overhead would add at least 3 cents to the cost of operations.

The average life of a taxi he said was three years.

Mr. Cook argued that from the figures he had given that a minimum charge of 50 cents was not an exorbitant one.

In closing he urged the committee to report favorably on the proposed ordinance.

Mr. Elsworth Speaks

Attorney Elsworth, appearing for the bus corporation, said that an efficient and dependable bus service is essential to the life of a city. He said the bus company had no fight with the taxi companies as the field

Railroad Petition to Discontinue Agent at Mt. Marion Granted

The Public Service Commission on Monday made an order granting the petition of the New York Central Railroad, West Shore Division, to discontinue the services of a station agent at Mt. Marion station and place the station in charge of a caretaker. Harry H. Flemming appeared for the railroad at a recent public hearing on the application held at the court house in this city.

At that time there was opposition to discontinuing the services of an agent and a large number of residents from the vicinity of Mt. Marion appeared in opposition to the application. The plan as advanced by the railroad was to discontinue the services of a regular agent as a part of an economy program. In place of the agent a caretaker will be on duty during certain hours to take care of business and to care for the station which will remain open and be heated and lighted. Saugerties will be the control station through which business will be handled. Freight will be received at Mt. Marion and the caretaker will be on duty during certain hours to make delivery.

The station will be a non-penalty station and tickets will be purchased on the train at no additional cost to patrons.

At the public hearing the express company stated that if the caretaker appointed by the railroad was competent to handle express shipments then he would be appointed an express agent and would be authorized to handle all express shipments at the station while on duty.

Dr. Grenfell Will Lecture Sunday

Sir Wilfred Grenfell, whose beneficent work in Labrador is so well known the world over, is himself one of the greatest spiritual forces in the world today, and the rare privilege of hearing him speak will be afforded all those who attend the special service at the First Reformed Church on Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock. Dr. Grenfell has for many years been lovingly and most wisely ministering to the fisher folk of Labrador, healing bodies and souls the entire length of the Labrador coast. In this wonderful work he has had the untiring and efficient cooperation of Lady Grenfell, who has interested herself in helping the people of Labrador, especially the women and children, to learn to do things, worth while things, with their hands, and in making their home life more comfortable and healthy. She will accompany Sir Wilfred to Kingston. At the service on Sunday afternoon, to which the public is cordially invited, there will also be special music, appropriate to the inspired message that Dr. Grenfell will bring.

On Monday, October 10, Sir Wilfred and Lady Grenfell will hold a sale of articles made by the Labrador people—hooked rugs, carved ivories and hand woven goods—at the Governor Clinton Hotel. The sale will be held from 3 to 6 o'clock and will be in charge of Mrs. Hugh Jamison, with a committee of local women assisting.

Truck Caught Fire On Ferry Street

The large truck owned by William McCullough, mason contractor of West Chestnut street, was badly damaged and the driver of the truck, William Williams, singed about the eyebrows and arms, when the truck suddenly caught fire while being filled with gas at the Stone service station on Ferry street this noon. Some one turned in an alarm of fire from Box 25 and another from Box 24, bringing out considerable fire apparatus.

Just how the gas ignited appears to be a mystery. The driver of the truck was seated in the cab talking to Sam Stone who was holding the gas hose when the gas in the tank suddenly ignited.

The truck was hauled about twenty-five feet away from the gas pump and the front end of the truck and the cab was a mass of flames when the fire department arrived.

Treasury Receipts.

Washington, Oct. 4 (AP).—Treasury receipts for October 1 were $5,072,543.58; expenditures, $5,543,541.19; balance, $561,248,226.68. Customs duties for one day of October were $930,708.33.

Kiwanians Furnished 30,000 Bottles of Milk For School Children

The Kingston Kiwanis Club each year, by means of an entertainment, raises the money with which to carry on the milk fund. This last year approximately $1,000 has been spent in that way by the club.

The way in which this milk fund is administered is very simple and very interesting. Each day the various dealers deliver to the grade schools of the city the number of one-half pint bottles of milk ordered by the school. The school in turn arrives at the amount through the interest of the teachers in the individual youngsters.

Any child in school has the privilege of receiving milk. Those who wish to take it must pay for it if they can. The teacher and school nurse must select the children whom they feel sure are in need of this extra nourishment and they are served with milk regularly each day without charge to them. This is the particular part of the service which is financed by the Kiwanis Club. During the past year approximately 30,000 bottles of milk have been served to undernourished children in the grade schools as a result of the Kiwanis milk fund.

The system in one school which the writer visited is as follows: Each week the teachers of the various grades make out a list of all the boys and girls in that particular room who should receive milk but can not afford to pay for it. They add to this list the names of those who desire to take milk and are willing to pay for it. This list is checked each week and turned over to the principal of the school who in turn sends it on to the various dealers.

At 10 o'clock each morning at a given signal all the children who are to receive milk assemble and are served. In many instances this is the only morning nourishment received and therefore fills a very great need. School officials are unanimous in their hope that this worthy work will continue.

Another aspect received from some of the parents is that because of this service many children will drink milk in school who do not care for it at all when at home. Therefore many parents are glad to pay the necessary amount in order that their children might have this service.

To carry on this work requires, as has been said, about $1,000. By buying a ticket to the Kiwanis Play you not only assure yourself of a good entertainment but you are helping to supply some poor kiddie with life giving nourishment.

Members of the Kiwanis Booster Committee will meet tonight at the Y. M. C. A. to complete plans for the "Booster Edition" of The Freeman.

Tickets for the Kiwanis Entertainment at the high school auditorium on next Tuesday and Wednesday evenings, when the Hughes Players will present "A Woman's Way," may be exchanged for reserved seats at the Y. M. C. A. beginning tomorrow at 10 o'clock.

EARTHQUAKES INCIDENT TO MOUNTAIN BUILDING

Washington, Oct. 4 (AP).—The earthquakes jarring Greece are just an incident in nature's mountain-building program in that part of the world.

This view was expressed today by government scientists who explained that fault lines, or fractures in the earth's crust, run northwest and southeast through the Chalcidice peninsula where the quakes are occurring.

Greece, these scientists say, lies in the great earthquake belt that runs all the way from the East Indies to the Alps by way of the Himalaya Mountains and the Mediterranean basin. Another such belt partially encircles the Pacific Ocean. These belts are centers of the earthquake action.

Rising and sinking of sections of the earth's crust causes earthquakes because the movements take place in a series of "jumps". Earthquakes are the jarring that results. Scientists explain that stresses and strains gradually are built up inside the earth, as when a man bends a stick across his knee in an effort to break it. When the strain is great enough the stick breaks—in the earth there is breaking or shifting of rocks and a resulting earthquake.

DR. JACOBSON'S RESIDENCE ENTERED BY VANDALS MONDAY

The police department was notified Monday evening that some one had entered the former Dr. George F. Chandler residence on East Chestnut street, which was recently purchased by Dr. Joseph Jacobson, and had turned on the gas jets on the lower floor and also the water faucets, flooding the floors.

Dr. Jacobson and his bride are in Europe and during their absence the house is being renovated and painted by a force of workmen. The only furniture in the house is stored in one of the rooms which is kept locked.

The police made an investigation and believe that entrance was made by children who turned on the gas and the faucets. As far as known nothing of value was removed from the house.

Kingston Council Will Celebrate 35th Birthday

Knights of Columbus Organized Locally Oct. 24, 1897, in Diamond's Hall—Celebrations to be Held Next Sunday and on Columbus Day.

This month Kingston Council No. 275, Knights of Columbus, is to celebrate the thirty-fifth anniversary of its organization. The council was organized on October 24, 1897, the first meeting being held in Diamond's Hall, Broadway and Thomas street.

The celebration is to open on Sunday, October 9, with a memorial Mass at St. Peter's Church at 8 o'clock. This Mass will be offered by the chaplain, the Rev. Henry E. Herdegen, for all the departed members of the council, and it is expected that as many members as possible will receive Holy Communion at the Mass. The officers are especially desirous that a very large number of Knights shall attend the service as well as the families of deceased members.

The second event of the anniversary will be held on Columbus Day, Wednesday, October 12, at the Governor Clinton Hotel when a dinner dance will be held. After the dinner a short speaking program will be given, the principal speaker being the Hon. William T. Byrne, state senator from Albany. Following the program, dancing will be enjoyed, music being rendered by Erne's Knights of Columbus orchestra.

The committee having charge of the anniversary has made extensive preparations for both events and in order that arrangements may be made with the hotel, the committee desires that members make reservations for the banquet as early as possible, by return card.

Those charter members of Kingston Council who are still associated with the order will be guests of honor at the dinner and the council looks forward to a very enjoyable occasion.

Lively Discussions Feature Meeting of Kingston Taxpayers

Taxpayers Association Considers Many Phases of Local Government In Effort To Gain Economy and Efficiency.

One of the liveliest and best attended meetings of the Kingston Taxpayers Association was held in the court room at the city hall Monday evening. In a generally participated in discussion of several phases of the administration of city affairs the speakers did not hesitate to voice emphatically their views of what is and what they thought ought to be.

At the opening of the meeting, shortly after 8:15, President Terry read an article from The Freeman in regard to the proposition of paying taxes in instalments, which noted that in 27 states such method of payment is now allowed. Elmer E. Swart of the committee on legislation took up the question in reporting for his committee. He said that the committee had met with the committee of the common council, but it appeared that such a plan could not be put into operation in Kingston without a revision of the city charter. A number of possibly desirable changes in methods of governing the city could not be made without such revision. It had also been suggested that the committee consider the adoption of a commission form of government for the city. The committee felt that to intelligently handle the questions involved it should have the assistance of an attorney, preferably one not tied up too strongly with any political party and one familiar with the city charter.

Taxi Question.

Mr. Swart also remarked that possibly his committee might learn something of interest if they were in attendance on the meeting to consider the taxi question, being held upstairs. He felt that "if the city can adopt an ordinance on taxis it can adopt one on the price of milk. I don't believe in increasing prices for the benefit of a corporation. This is a free country and if a man wants to run a taxi for five cents it's his business as long as he can keep it up." Prolonged applause greeted this expression of sentiment, which evidently touched a responsive chord.

President Terry said that he was aware of the fact that the question of charter amendment was one that would take time for consideration and he favored the proposition to engage counsel. On motion the committee was authorized to retain an attorney for advice on the matter of charter revision.

The president referred to the fact that he had on his desk a number of documents relating to government expense and matters that would come up during the present campaign. He referred to one giving increases in the cost of government in New York state, showing that the cost had increased from $168,000,000 in 1922 to $251,000,000 in 1931. It was also noted that bond issues voted during recent years totaled something over half a billion dollars. Except for the fact that these bonds have not all been issued the speaker said he thought the state would have gone into bankruptcy. This latter statement was brought out in referring to the contemplated state bond issue of $30,000,000.

Vote Through Ignorance

The suggestion was made by another speaker that the people "voted through ignorance" on money questions; that the voters failed to acquaint themselves with the facts in the case and that they did not realize what the state was. Too many people did not seem to understand that money spent by the state came from the taxpayers.

There was considerable discussion of the question of old age relief, the statement being made that there

Democrats Unable To Agree on Slate; Will Meet Tonight

State Armory, Albany, N. Y., Oct. 4 (AP).—The Democratic state convention recessed after a five minute session this afternoon until tonight at 7 o'clock, when nominations for governor and other state officers will be taken up.

Tonight also is the time set aside for Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt to address the delegates.

George Gordon Battle, chairman of the committee to escort Mr. Roosevelt to the Tenth Infantry armory, notified T. Arthur Hendricks of Watertown, convention chairman, that arrangements for Roosevelt's appearance would be made late today.

It was not known whether the governor would talk before or after the nominations.

Meanwhile the deadlock over the preference of Tammany Hall for a gubernatorial candidate persisted.

John H. McCooey of Brooklyn, endeavoring to effect a compromise, had proposed to John F. Curry, Tammany chief, the leaders of the Herbert H. Lehman and those supporting Mayor John Boyd Thacher of Albany, a ticket headed by U. S. Senator Robert F. Wagner, including Lehman for the Senate and Thacher for either lieutenant governor or comptroller.

Hendricks called the convention to order at 1:35 p. m. It had been scheduled to meet at noon.

The prayer was offered by the Rev. William Springer, pastor of Trinity Church.

The chairman announced that electors at large and by districts had been named by committee selected at the last meeting of the state committee.

A mile away, in the Tammany hotel conference room, the New York city leaders were closeted with former Governor Alfred E. Smith and a group of upstaters supporting Thacher. Smith is backing Lieutenant Governor Lehman.

Those in the conference included: Curry, McCooey, Daniel and Edward J. O'Connell, Albany; M. William Bray, Utica; William Dineen, Jefferson county; Dr. Arthur J. Leonard, Saratoga Springs; and William H. Kelley, Syracuse.

GEANEY ARRESTED ON BURGLARY CHARGE

Morris Geaney of High Falls, said to be a veteran of the A. E. F. and to have suffered from shell-shock, was arrested this morning by Corporal Norman Baker and brought before County Judge Frederick G. Traver, who, sitting as a committing magistrate, held him for the grand jury on a charge of burglary in the third degree.

Geaney is charged with having kicked in the front window of the general store of Issie Pekarsky at High Falls, Monday night and stolen several cartons of cigarettes and a number of cans of coffee.

Corporal Baker was notified this morning and went to High Falls. He said he traced the deed to Geaney, who it is stated confessed and disclosed where he had hidden the stolen articles in the woods.

May Cut Itself Away.

London, Oct. 4 (AP)—Dispatches from Dublin to London newspapers today reported rumors which, however, could not be confirmed, that President De Valera does not intend to nominate a successor to former Lieut. Gov. McNeill, who resigned yesterday, and that the Free State planned to cut away entirely from the British commonwealth.

Strikers At Work.

Adams Center, N. Y., Oct. 4 (AP)—Leaders of the milk strike in Jefferson and Oneida counties, dissatisfied with the first day's results, were attempting today to line up dairymen who continued to deliver milk.

Republican Party Names Col. Donovan For Governor

Platform Containing a 14-Word Endorsement of President Hoover's Stand on Prohibition Unanimously Adopted—Big Demonstration in Honor of "Wild Bill Donovan", Who Will Head State Ticket.

Auditorium, Buffalo, Oct. 4 (AP).—By acclamation, on the motion of Joseph C. H. Flynn of Brooklyn who had been selected to second the nomination, Col. William J. Donovan of Buffalo and New York, was nominated today for governor of New York by the Republican state convention.

The session was delayed for an hour while the delegates participated in a demonstration in honor of Col. William J. Donovan.

Led by a band and by Milton D. Cohen of Buffalo, who served under Col. Donovan in the old "Fighting 69th" in France, the Republicans sang and shouted themselves hoarse in the big flag-draped auditorium.

Over and over again they sang a new march song with a stirring martial air. The chorus runs:

"Wild Bill Donovan" there's magic in the name, because 'twas Wild Bill Donovan who fought his way to fame

In the trenches of the Argonne and the crossing of the Ourcq

And he'll fight his way to victory as governor of New York.

Hurrah for Wild Bill Donovan, leader tried and true

We send him from the Sixty Ninth to you.

East Side, West Side, all around the town;

Up state, down state herald his renown.

And if you want a governor to guide you safely through,

We offer Wild Bill Donovan to you."

When they weren't singing "Wild Bill Donovan," the delegates roared out "Over There" and "The Long, Long Trail."

Throughout the convention hall noise makers contributed to the general din.

Mrs. Donovan, a small gray-haired woman in a printed silk gown, sat down in the convention hall at one side of the platform while the demonstration was going on.

"It is exciting, isn't it?" she said.

A demonstration almost as noisy as that for Donovan greeted Senator George R. Fearon, Republican leader of the Senate, when he stepped to the rostrum to present the platform to Secretary LaFayette B. Glenson.

Platform Adopted.

The fourteen word plank on the prohibition question, "We endorse President Hoover's position on prohibition as expressed in his speech of acceptance," produced a brief handclapping but no cheering demonstration.

The platform was adopted by acclamation.

The convention then proceeded to the business of nominating a governor. Judge Isadore Bookstein of Albany, first delegate on the roll call, yielded in the nominating procedure to Mayor Charles E. Roesch of Buffalo, who came to the rostrum to put Donovan's name before the convention.

"This great convention," Mayor Roesch said, "is not assembled here to give primary consideration to what maybe good for the Republican party. We are here to deliberate on policies of government that will enable all of the people of this great Empire State to enjoy the fullest attainable measure of safety, comfort and happiness.

"We are here to choose candidates for state offices who, when elected, will lead the way in doing the things which the public welfare requires to have done. Certainly there never was a time when our state government needed wiser or more courageous leadership."

After characterizing the Democratic administration in Albany as a "rampant bureaucracy reaching out to strengthen its grip on our public affairs," Mayor Roesch continued:

"Let us not fool ourselves. The most vital and urgent need of the state of New York in this year of 1932 is the election of a capable governor who will give his undivided time and attention to the solution of the state's pressing problems with never a thought of his own political future."

With the statement that he had known him personally "since I was a lad doing chores in a butcher shop," Mayor Roesch launched into a eulogy of Col. Donovan.

DEPUTIES DEMAND PAPAL DELEGATE BE EXPELLED

Mexico City, Oct. 4 (AP).—The Chamber of Deputies decided to call on President Rodriguez today in a body and demand the expulsion from Mexico of the Papal delegate, Monsignor Leopoldo Ruiz Y Flores, because of the recent encyclical of Pope Pius XI on Mexican church affairs.

Van Keuren Trial.

The trial of William W. Van Keuren, charged by Mrs. Carey with unlawful entry, will be held before Justice Walter Webber and a jury at Lake Katrine at 7 p. m. today. Senator D. A. Murphy will be the attorney for the defense.

Negroes Jailed for Slashing Each Other

Louis Raglan and Dallas Walker Had Argument Sunday Which Led to Use of Knife—Other Cases in Police Court Before Culloton.

Louis Raglan and Dallas Walker, two negroes, were found guilty of slashing each other with a knife on Sunday on North street, and each was sentenced to pay a fine of $25 or serve a day in jail for each dollar of the fine unpaid. As they were without funds they were remanded to jail.

According to Raglan's story he and Walker had an argument. He claimed Walker drew a knife and slashed him in the hand and that he took the knife from the other and slashed back. Both had their wounds dressed at the Kingston Hospital. They were each charged with assault in the third degree.

Willard Joy of Hunter street was arrested Monday night on complaint of his wife who charged her husband with disorderly conduct in using loud language at their home. Joy claimed he was drunk at the time. A friend had given him a quart of wine and he had drank it all up. His wife said she wanted separation papers from her husband and was informed by Judge Culloton that she was in the wrong court to obtain them. Judge Culloton sentenced Joy to 10 days in jail.

Martin Sharki of Sherburne, N. Y., was fined $10 for illegal use of license plates on the auto he was driving and also for failing to have a certificate of registration with him.

Daishhibi Yomogetti, the Japanese student, who was arrested on a vagrancy charge several days ago and given an opportunity to get out of town was re-arrested Monday on a charge of panhandling and today was sentenced to 30 days in jail.

Appeal Court Studies Mayoralty Election

Albany, N. Y., Oct. 4 (AP).—The hotly contested question whether New York city is to have a mayoralty election next month was before the Court of Appeals today.

The New York board of elections, which is preparing to hold the election November 8, and the friends of Mayor Joseph V. McKee, who are opposing the move, brought their arguments before the state's highest tribunal after lower courts had ruled both ways in the dispute.

Davis MacAdams, a friend of the mayor, is seeking to have the court reverse the appelate division of the Supreme Court which late last month decided that an election was required. The appelate division reversed the Supreme Court which previously had granted an injunction restraining the board from holding a mayoralty election.

If the Court of Appeals sustains the Supreme Court, McKee, who took office September 1 upon resignation of former Mayor James J. Walker, will have until January 1, 1934, to carry out his policies.

Otherwise McKee's present term will be up at the end of this year, and former Mayor Walker, should he and organization leaders so decide, will have an opportunity in November to run for reelection.

Hoover Enroute to Give Campaign Talk

On board Presidential Special, enroute to Des Moines, Oct. 4 (AP).—President Hoover headed into his home state of Iowa today with the campaign speech he will deliver tonight at Des Moines partially completed, but with the remainder, described by one of his secretaries as the fighting part, unfinished.

The chief executive worked to put the finishing touches on the speech in which he will discuss agricultural and other problems as his special train was speeding through the farm states of Illinois and Iowa in a steady fall of rain.

His aides indicated he might not complete the address until he is near Des Moines.

Meanwhile Mrs. Hoover took over the function of greeting crowds gathered around the rear platform of the special train during the early morning stops.

"I think you people are mighty nice to come out on a rainy day like this to say hello," the first lady said, waving her hand to a group gathered at Ottawa.

Someone suggested, "three cheers for the wife of the next president," and they were given.

Seek to Return Absent Insulls

Chicago, Oct. 4 (AP)—La Salle Street—Chicago's financial mart—openly doubted today that the absent Insulls would be returned to the United States even if State's Attorney John A. Swanson obtains indictments against them as a result of the collapse of the giant utility companies they once controlled.

While Swanson was marshalling evidence to present to the county grand jury, rumor was current in business circles that Samuel Insull, Sr., now in Paris, and his brother, Martin, now in Orillia, Ontario, Canada, would fight to the last ditch any attempts to extradite them.

Swanson last night announced he would seek indictment of the brothers on charges of embezzlement, larceny, and larceny by bailee. Several days ago the prosecutor asked the Insulls to return voluntarily for questioning in connection with the investigation of the burst utility bubble.

"The Insulls have not replied," Swanson said. "If these people who have caused losses of more than two billion dollars to investors will not return voluntarily, then I shall use every means given me by the law to bring them back."

Bus and Taxi Concerns Fight 25 Cent Fares

of operation of busses and taxis was separate and distinct, but when the bus service was endangered by taxi service it was proper for the bus corporation to step in and see that its interests were protected.

Busses must operate 18 hours a day on schedule time whether there is but one passenger in the bus or a bus load.

He said there would be a chaotic condition of affairs if the bus service was wiped out. During the present depression the speaker said that the bus company had not laid off a man, but was giving each man 5½ days a week.

Mr. Elsworth said that the bus corporation should be protected. He said he was frank to say that the bus corporation had felt the effect of this 25 cent taxi fare.

The bus corporation felt it should be protected as it had a considerable investment in franchise and equipment and that the aldermen should act favorably on the proposed ordinance.

Mrs. McCausland Opposed

No others desired to be heard in favor of the proposed ordinance and the floor was given over to those opposed. The first to speak in opposition to the adoption of the ordinance was Mrs. Robert Lee McCausland. She said that where she lived they had bus service only every half hour.

Competition Life of Trade

She said that when Montgomery Ward, the five and ten cent stores, Penny's store, Grant's store and other chain stores had located in Kingston you did not see Rose & Gorman appearing before the Common Council and asking to have prices protected. No, they did what they could to meet competition.

"Competition" she said "was the life of the nation."

She said that when a man lowered his prices on any commodity no law was introduced to make him boost his prices.

A taxi man, she said, has a right to charge his own fare, and a man had a right to sell his commodity at any price he can get. If it was true that taxi men were losing money at the 25 cent fare that was his hard luck.

In closing she urged the council to refuse to adopt the ordinance.

Judge Shufeldt Speaks

Judge Shufeldt said that if a man opened a store it was a private business. If a man embarked in taxi operation it was a private business. It was not the function of the common council, he said, to enact laws for the benefit of any particular business and taxi operation was a private business. He said that the Common Council was there to serve the public and not to serve any particular business at the expense of the public.

The speaker in closing said that the 25 cent taxi fare reached people at a price within their reach, and urged that the council refuse to adopt the ordinance. He said if the bus business was affected by the 25 cent fare they had a legal remedy in the courts.

Mr. Ferguson Speaks

Mr. Ferguson in his remarks said that if taxi drivers want to do right by the public they should purchase cars that can be operated profitably at a fare of 25 cents. Due to mass production such cars were now manufactured and on the market. He said that the bus corporation had adopted a fare of 10 cents in opposition to the protests of the people of the city. However, the people did not boycott the busses as they should have.

Don't Favor Increase

Judging from the sentiment displayed at the meeting there is considerable opposition to a 50 cent taxi fare, for all of the speakers who opposed the ordinance were greeted with hearty applause, while those speaking in favor were greeted with silence on the part of the audience present at the hearing.

RAW FURY

"Nature in the Raw"—as portrayed by Meissonier's famous painting (1855) . . . inspired by the savage passion held in check by Henry IV's stern edict against duels among the nobles of his court.

—and raw tobaccos have no place in cigarettes

They are not present in Luckies . . . the mildest cigarette you ever smoked

WE buy the finest, the very finest tobaccos in all the world—but that does not explain why folks everywhere regard Lucky Strike as the mildest cigarette. The fact is, we never overlook the truth that "Nature in the Raw is Seldom Mild"—so these fine tobaccos, after proper aging and mellowing, are then given the benefit of that Lucky Strike purifying process, described by the words—"It's toasted". That's why folks in every city, town and hamlet say that Luckies are such mild cigarettes.

"It's toasted"
That package of mild Luckies

"If a man write a better book, preach a better sermon, or make a better mouse-trap than his neighbor, though he build his house in the woods, the world will make a beaten path to his door."—RALPH WALDO EMERSON.
Does not this explain the world-wide acceptance and approval of Lucky Strike?

EXPLANATION—Matter in black is new

STATE OF NEW YORK
DEPARTMENT OF STATE
Albany, July 2, 1932.

PURSUANT to the provisions of section one of article fourteen of the Constitution of the State of New York, and section sixty-eight of the Election Law, notice is hereby given that the following proposed amendments numbers one to five inclusive to the Constitution of the State of New York is referred to the legislature to be chosen at the next general election of Senators in this state to be held on the eighth day of November, nineteen hundred thirty-two.

EDWARD J. FLYNN,
Secretary of State.

PROPOSED AMENDMENT NUMBER ONE
CONCURRENT RESOLUTION OF THE SENATE AND ASSEMBLY
PROPOSING AN AMENDMENT TO SECTION SEVEN OF ARTICLE ONE OF THE CONSTITUTION, IN RELATION TO THE METHOD OF ASCERTAINING THE COMPENSATION FOR PRIVATE PROPERTY TAKEN FOR PUBLIC USE

Section 1. Resolved, That section seven of article one of the constitution be amended to read as follows:

§ 7. When private property shall be taken for any public use, the compensation to be made therefor, when such compensation is not made by the state, shall be ascertained by a jury, or by the supreme court with or without a jury, but not with a referee, or, in proceedings affecting property located within the city of New York and to be acquired by the city of New York, by a term of said court to consist of one or more justices thereof without a jury, or by not less than three commissioners appointed by a court of record, as shall be prescribed by law. Private roads may be opened in the manner to be prescribed by law; but in every case the necessity of the road and the amount of all damage to be sustained by the opening thereof shall be first determined by a jury of freeholders, and such amount, together with the expenses of the proceedings, shall be paid by the person to be benefited. The use of property for the drainage of swamp or agricultural lands is declared to be a public use and general laws may be passed permitting the owners or occupants of swamp or agricultural lands to construct and maintain for the drainage thereof, necessary drains, ditches and dykes upon the lands of others, under proper restrictions on making just compensation, and such compensation together with the cost of such drainage may be assessed, wholly or partly, against any property benefited thereby; but no special laws shall be enacted for such purposes.

The legislature may authorize cities and counties to take more land and property than is needed for actual construction in the laying out, widening, extending or relocating parks, public places, highways or streets; provided, however, that the additional land and property so authorized to be taken shall be no more than sufficient to form suitable building sites abutting on such park, public place, highway or street. After so much of the land and property has been appropriated for such park, public place, highway or street, as is needed therefor, the remainder may be sold or leased.

Hitch-Hikers Rob Man of His Auto

Thomas Zero of 389 Schenectady avenue, Brooklyn, called up police headquarters from the Peters gas station on the Saugerties road, a short distance outside of the city, Monday evening about 7 o'clock and reported that two hitch-hikers he had picked up at Marlborough had held him up, relieved him of $16 in cash and taken his Studebaker sedan, valued at $200, leaving him stranded.

According to Mr. Zero the two men were seated in the back seat of the car and just a short distance outside of the city one of them had pulled a gun and ordered him to stop the car. He did so and they then proceeded to rob him of his money and his car, driving away and leaving him standing alongside the road.

He hastened to the nearest gas station and telephone.

He said his car was a 1928 model. The police reported the holdup to the sheriff's office and state troopers were notified.

What Happened to The Dog Ordinance?

Alderman Zucca Will Ask The Common Council This Question at The Council Meeting Tonight.

Paul Zucca, alderman of the First ward, will ask the Common Council this evening what has happened to his dog ordinance which he introduced some time ago and which is now with the Laws and Rules committee. The ordinance introduced by Alderman Zucca was designed to restrain unmuzzled dogs from roaming the streets. Its introduction came after an epidemic of dog bite cases in the city.

Asked this morning by a Freeman reporter as to what had happened to the ordinance which he introduced some time ago he said that he intended to inquire at the meeting of the council this evening as to where the ordinance was and what action the committee intended to take in the matter.

"My ordinance is with the Laws and Rules committee now", said Alderman Zucca. "It has been sidetracked along with Alderman Doheny's trucking ordinance. Several letters have been sent in regard to the dog ordinance and the committee has been considering the ordinance from several angles before reporting it to the council. I am going to ask about it at our meeting tonight," said Mr. Zucca. Dog days and warm weather being over he said he had not pressed the committee to report it to the council but he said he intended to bring up the matter at the council meeting this evening.

Several other matters he said had been taken up by the committee ahead of his ordinance.

Train Struck Car Of William Stoff

William Stoff of Saugerties road had a narrow escape from serious injury or death on Monday afternoon when his Chevrolet coupe was struck by a passenger train on the Flatbush avenue crossing of the West Shore railroad.

The police department was notified and the ambulance removed Stoff to the Kingston Hospital where it was found he was not seriously injured and after treatment he returned to his home. His car was wrecked.

According to Stoff's story to the police he was driving toward the crossing and stopped to allow a freight train to pass and then as the crossing gate was lifted he started to drive across, but halted on the track when the opposite crossing gate was not raised. As he stopped his auto was struck by the train and hurled about 75 feet. That Stoff was not killed appeared a miracle.

Railroad Statistics

Washington, Oct. 4 —The chances of a railroad passenger being killed were given today by R. H. Aishton, president of the American Railway Association, as 1 to 150,000,000. He was picturing the nation's rail lines as leaders in safety and service.

October Term of Court Convened

Judge F. Walter Bliss convened the October term of supreme court Monday afternoon and indications are that the term will continue for a full month. There is a large calendar of causes and many of them have been marked ready for trial as soon as reached. After making up a day calendar for today the trial jurors were called and but nine excuses were presented to the court, eight of those asking to be excused were excused for the term and one was excused for the first two weeks of court.

Before asking for excuses Judge Bliss announced that he realized this was a hard time for people in the country to get away from their work and he would not require any man to serve for more than a week at a time. Any one drawn on the panel he said would be excused if he so desired after a week of service on presenting his request to the court. After that statement the number of men asking for release from service was unusually small.

Those who were excused from service were: Graham Bennett, Wawarsing; Daniel Bittner, Kingston; A. D. Clark, Wawarsing; Reginald Every, Shandaken; Herbert Glass, Hurley; Joseph Mosher, Jr., Kingston; Gershom Mount, Lloyd; John Sisco, Saugerties. Only one juror failed to answer to his name when called. Samuel Breakstone of Wawarsing was out of the county and not served. Alfred Bedell of Shawangunk was excused from service for the first two weeks of the term.

But one Grand Juror was excused. Henry Thoneman of Wawarsing was excused by the court. Edward J. Ryan of Kingston was named foreman of the grand jury and Harry Wells of Saugerties was made acting foreman. After his charge Judge Bliss directed the grand jurors to enter upon their deliberations.

Application was made to the court for the appointment of a referee in certiorari proceedings growing out of the city of New York's desire to review the 1932 assessment of reservoir property in the towns of Hurley, Olive and Marbletown for the year 1932. Similar proceedings are now under way for the years 1929, 1930. Harry H. Flemming appeared for the towns and the city of New York was represented by counsel from the corporation counsel's office. Judge Bliss stated that he would appoint a referee agreed upon between counsel or if they could not agree upon anyone the court would then appoint a man of his selection.

The court directed that an extra panel of 20 jurors be summoned from the county box after which court adjourned.

The extra panel of jurors drawn Monday afternoon and returnable today is:

Stephen Bodle, Woodstock.
Robert Boyle, 609 Delaware avenue.
Charles Cook, Ravine street.
Maynard DeWitt, Kerhonkson.
Henry C. Dolloway, Clarryville.

R. F. C. Lends Huge Sum To Business

Washington, Oct. 4 (AP).—Advances of $1,182,734,958 "in actual cash to aid agriculture, commerce and industry to recover from the depression" were announced today by the Reconstruction Corporation in a summary of loans made during its first seven months of operation.

From February 2, through August 31, the corporation said $1,118,532,968 was loaned to 5,599 borrowers and $64,201,989 through the secretary of agriculture to 507,632 farmers for crop production purposes.

In addition, advances to states and political subdivisions for relieving distress were totalled by the corporation at $35,455,171.

The corporation's statement showing that its financial operations have involved approximately one-third of the $3,800,000,000 fund placed at its disposal by Congress, dealt only with general statistics and did not mention individual borrowers.

The corporation said that of its $1,118,532,968 direct loans, borrowers on August 31 had repaid $150,890,897 leaving $967,642,071 outstanding. Loans of $226,101,268 had been authorized in addition to cash actually paid out, but $35,564,412 of this amount was cancelled by the borrowers and $190,536,855 had not been called for.

ASHAMED TO SPEND

A teacher whose salary was not much reduced until this term said about a year ago that she thought it was a duty to continue normal living, spending as she had been accustomed to spending, maintaining her home, her car and her clothing according to her means. She was hampered in this by the attitude of her friends, some of whom were facing difficulties with their greatly lowered incomes, but many of whom were teachers in the same position as herself. Their attitude toward her if she bought anything or did anything which cost money was one of amazement and outright disapproval.

It may be that sort of thing that has inspired the campaign "to encourage retail spending by those who can afford it and to defeat the psychology which makes people ashamed to buy a car or build a house." Every community needs to have houses built, cars bought, other markets stimulated by normal trade. Hoarding has been one of the aggravating influences of these troubled years. Because many who might have spent normally have been deterred through fear or through the pressure of public disapproval, their money withheld from trade has merely made matters worse.

INTERNATIONAL DRAMA.

Vienna is to have a season of international drama. The projected plan calls for a dozen or more plays, to be produced under the general title, Voices of the People in Drama. A play by Eugene O'Neill will be on the list.

American theater-goers see the works of various foreign playwrights, though no professional group and few amateur groups set out deliberately to produce a series of international plays. One city, with a large foreign population, put on a Theater of the Nations two successive seasons, each national group appearing in a play or a musical program typical of its native art. The project had excellent results in promoting good will and co-operation, and even on the artistic and cultural side many of the programs were well worth while. If the peoples of the world had as much interest in each other's history, economic needs and mutual welfare as they have in each other's literature and drama, the world might get along faster solving its problems of peace, trade and fundamental well-being.

COLLEGE IN POLITICS

Replying to a speaker who recently urged summer school students to purify politics by going into political life, President William Mather Lewis of Lafayette College says:

This is very flattering to college men. But let us consider whether politics will really be purified by the entrance of college men. I find that a goodly proportion of our representatives in Congress and other government officials are college men, and that many of them do not seem to be actuated by motives above the common level.

Anyone may make the same observation. We find college graduates on both sides of every political question. Their political thinking, as exemplified in their conduct and votes, seldom seems to differ much from that of less educated citizens. Some of the worst political bosses in America have been college graduates. The influence of a man in politics, President Lewis concludes, depends not on how much education he has, but how much character he has developed.

NEW BUILDING SYSTEM

Builders in our "American Ruhr," which extends from Pittsburgh to Detroit, are priding themselves on an original type of construction in the form of frameless steel houses, whose sections are made in the factory and merely put together on the lot.

The only really original thing about this experiment seems to be the use of sheet steel. More than 464 years ago Leonardo da Vinci, Italy's universal genius, wrote in his left-handed diary, running from right to left: "Let the houses be changed and built in an orderly way. This can easily be done when they are first made in parts in open places. Then the framework can be fitted together on the site where they are to stand." That might have given an industrial push to Italy during a depression.

It was this same painter-sculptor-architect-engineer-poet-musician-scientist whose design for an airplane is said by modern engineers to have lacked only a gas engine for successful flight. Da Vinci probably anticipated our modernist architects, too, in putting the skeleton of a building outside instead of inside. Still Nature did the same thing long before, when she built the turtle.

"America before the depression," says a New York minister, "was like an automobile equipped with a Lincoln motor, Ford brakes and bicycle lamps. It had enormous drive, poor control and little direction. Now, dazed, we are slowly recovering from the crash." And when it is all over, what kind of craft are we going to have? A Lincoln from bow to stern, or a pure-blooded Ford? And if the latter, will it be a V-eight shining with chromium, or a freckle-nosed Model T salvaged from a junk yard? Or will it be a tandem bike?

THE COMMON COLD

Although the common cold does not cause immediate death it is responsible for more illness, more loss of time from employment, more absences from school than any other single ailment.

Just as cancer is being investigated throughout the world so also is the common cold, because it is found just as often in one state or country as it is in another. The cause is now thought to be due to a tiny organism. Prof. Dochez of Columbia University took secretions from the noses of persons with colds, filtered out all the organisms he could see, and found that what was left gave healthy persons colds. He diluted this "filtrate"—what was left after all the known organisms were removed—so that the effect was like dissolving a grain of sugar in a gallon of water. Yet that tremendous dilution of the cold organism was powerful enough to cause fresh colds in persons who were willing to lend themselves to the experiment.

Many persons seem to keep free of colds by keeping the intestine active, the body warm, and not eating too much food.

However when the cold does come there are two points you should remember—yourself and other people. With yourself if at all possible you should stay home and rest in bed. This gives you the best chance of cutting short the cold. It also prevents you from spreading the infection to other people.

No medicine is really needed, not at first anyway, except that some baking soda, a half teaspoonful three times a day, or some other alkaline drink, should be taken. An enema also a laxative rid the intestine of waste, and the laxative also removes poisonous wastes from the blood. This clears the blood, and gives the white corpuscles a free hand to fight the organisms causing the cold.

If the throat is sore, a warm salt solution—a quarter teaspoonful to a half cup of warm water should be used as a gargle.

A hot foot bath will stimulate the circulation thus enabling the system to throw off the cold more readily.

Only a light diet, liquids preferred, should be used.

Remember, staying off the feet is the most important part of preventing a cold developing into bronchitis, broncho-pneumonia, or pneumonia itself.

Nothing Venture

by Patricia Wentworth

SYNOPSIS: Trying to fight down her growing conviction that Jervis has met with foul play, his wife Nan Wayne frantically questions the cold and distant Mrs. McBlain. The housekeeper will tell nothing. In the way to ask information of Rosamund Carew, the shifty girl who threw Jervis over in an attempt to cheat him of his fortune, lieutenant Francis remarks to Nan that Rosamund's mysterious friend, Robert Leonard, has been crazy.

Chapter 38

NAN ATTACKS

INSTANTLY Nan flashed round on Ferdinand.

"When did Leonard go? Where has he been?"

"He went away on Tuesday."

"This is Thursday," said Nan. She paused. "Isn't it?"

"Yes, it's Thursday all right. It was Tuesday we lunched with the Tetterleys. Leonard had crocked his car, you remember. He got it going enough to take him into Croyston that evening. He ran it into Brown's garage for repairs, and he dined and slept at the hotel. He had breakfast there Wednesday morning very sharp at eight, and hired a man to take him out here in time to tend his incubators. He's got a watertight alibi, you see."

"No, I don't," said Nan. "If he was planning anything wicked, isn't that just what he'd do—go away and pretend he wasn't here?"

Ferdinand looked at her quickly sideways.

"I went to the George. He was playing billiards until half-past eleven. The chambermaid called him at seven. His car was in Brown's garage out of action—I went there and made sure of that."

Nan's lips made an unwontedly hard line. But nothing more was said until they reached the Tetterleys. Then F. F. looked quickly at her again, thought how pale she was, and said,

"Well, I'm not on in this scene, I guess. I'll put the car in the shade and wait."

Nan was shown into the drawing-room, a big formal room which Janet Tetterley used as little as possible. It was still furnished after her mother-in-law's taste, Basher having proved extraordinarily obstinate when pressed to get rid of an ebony grand piano, two ormolu cabinets, and a quantity of water-color paintings executed by the late Mrs. Tetterley in a frigid style.

Rosamund was standing at the far end of this room. She held a cigarette in her right hand. She was dressed in pale yellow linen. As Nan came towards her, she turned away to pick up a matchbox. Rosamund's strong white hands were perfectly steady. She blew out her first mouthful of smoke before she spoke.

"Wanderer returned?" she said.

"No," said Nan.

Rosamund drew at her cigarette. "He's not here. Did you think he was?"

Nan said, "No," again in the same quiet voice.

Rosamund laughed.

"I haven't seen him, and I haven't got him here. And if you'll take my advice, you'll stop hunting round after him. Good Lord, my dear! This is the twentieth century, and a man does occasionally go away for twenty-four hours without taking his whole family with him!"

"Yes," said Nan— "Ferdinand said that too."

"It's bound to be true if Ferdinand said it!" Her voice was insolent. Then suddenly she curbed it. "I know Jervis pretty well, and if you want my advice—which I don't suppose you do—I should say let sleeping dogs lie."

She had remained standing. A long window let in a brilliant panel of sunshine which slanted to her feet. Nan was standing too. She came a little nearer and said,

"Do you know where Jervis is?"

Rosamund's beautiful eyebrows rose.

"That's a little crude, isn't it?"

"Yes," said Nan. "I'm not worrying about being crude—I'm worrying about Jervis. If he's all right, he may be anywhere he likes, and he may be with anyone he likes. If you know where he is, will you tell me?"

"I've told you that I don't know."

"Yes," said Nan. "But you keep hinting that you do. I should be very glad if you would stop hinting and say what you mean."

Rosamund gave a short laugh.

"I don't mean anything. If I'm to be quite candid, I think you're making a damned fuss. Men will go off on their own—and, knowing Jervis, I should say there'll be the devil to pay when he finds out that you've been sending the town-crier round after him."

"Yes," said Nan. She fixed her steady eyes on Rosamund. "You say men go off—but do they generally go in the middle of the night without any luggage?"

Something odd happened; but it happened so quickly that it would have been difficult to swear to. Nan had only an impression that Rosamund had begun to say something, and that before the words reached her lips the cigarette which she was holding slipped sideways so that the red-hot tip burnt her finger. It was just an impression.

The cigarette slipped, and Rosamund said,

"Didn't he take any luggage?" Then she went on without waiting for an answer. "That doesn't mean very much—does it?"

Nan said, "I don't know."

"Do you want me to dot the 'I's? I don't mind if you don't."

"I would like you to say what you mean."

Rosamund laughed again.

"Perhaps he picked up what he wanted in New York."

"No," said Nan.

"You've been ringing them up?"

"Yes," said Nan.

Rosamund blew a smoke-ring.

"There is an alternative of course. If a man pays the rent of a flat, he very often keeps some things there."

"You don't seem to have a very high opinion of Jervis," said Nan.

Rosamund shrugged her shoulders.

"I don't expect him to be a plaster saint. If you do, I'm afraid you're going to get a good many jolts. If I had married him, I should have been quite philosophical about that sort of thing—but of course I never pretended to be in love with him." The stress on the "I" was of the slightest, but it was there.

Nan's color rose a little. She kept her voice quiet.

"You are trying to make me believe something that you don't believe yourself. I'm wondering why."

The ash fell from Rosamund's cigarette. It made a dusty patch on the fine primrose linen of her dress.

"Would you rather believe that he was drowned?"

The color in Nan's cheeks drained away. Her voice did not change.

"It's not a question of what either of us would rather believe—it's a question of the facts. I want to know what is true."

Rosamund stood with her hands behind her.

"You're very detached," she said. "Well then, here are your facts. Twice this summer, while we were bathing together, Jervis had cramp pretty badly. The last time I had to help him in. I don't think he'd have got in if he'd been alone. Well—you would have it you know."

A little more color ebbed away. Nan said,

"Is that true?"

"Certainly."

"Then the servants would know about it."

"If you think Jervis would be likely to go round telling people that sort of thing—"

"Did you tell anyone about it?"

"Why should I? I didn't particularly want to make Jervis wild with me just then."

"I see. Then nobody knew about this cramp but you?"

"And Jervis," said Rosamund.

"Yes, of course. Jervis would know if he had had cramp," said Nan.

She watched Rosamund's face, but it showed nothing. The sun dazzled behind her.

"You can't tell me anything else?"

"I'm afraid not. Ring me up if you hear anything."

"Yes," said Nan. "I'll ring you up when he gets back."

She said, "Good-bye, Rosamund," and turned and walked out of the room.

Knowledge

Knowledge is a commodity available in abundant quantities to all of us if our mood is receptive. We do not have to seek it, for it is to be found on every hand. Most men lack knowledge not because it is scarce, but because they are too lazy or too prejudiced to acquire it.—Grit.

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS—

by John Hix

Coach Frank J. Murray, Marquette University mentor, has a record for developing football teams that would credit any school—yet while he was in college Murray passed up football as a sport. At Tufts, Coach Murray was a star in baseball and basketball. When he entered Marquette as a coach he developed championship teams in football.

In 10 years of Murray's coaching the "Golden Avalanche" has won 65 games, lost 17 and tied four. In three seasons, 1922, 1923 and 1930, his teams were undefeated.

Unique among the thousands of libraries in the United States, is a little "public institution" located in a clearing in the hill country of northwest Arkansas. Mountain people of three states, Arkansas, Oklahoma, and Missouri, avail themselves of its service. The library is always open—it has never been locked since it was opened 20 years ago. In fact there is no lock on its door. There is no filing system. People come and get their books, enter their own names, and return the books when they are finished. The library's only equipment is books, easy chairs, an oil lamp and a wood burning stove.

The Campaign Puzzle

Study Past State-by-State Votes in Making Your Forecast

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the fifth of a series of articles showing how the states voted in the 1928 presidential election and pointing out developments since.

New Hampshire's vote for President in 1928:
Hoover—115,494.
Smith — 80,715.

New Hampshire's record of Republican regularity has been broken but twice since 1876, the state giving its electoral votes to Woodrow Wilson in 1912 and 1916. This Republican tradition was maintained in the state elections of 1930, when Gov. John G. Winant (R) was renominated in defiance of the custom of limiting governors to one term, and defeated by 20,000 majority. He was renominated for a third term in the recent primaries.

Campaign activity this year has been intensified by the results of the state elections in Maine early in September, which spurred Republican efforts to maintain the state's normal tendency while encouraging Democrats with a hope that this tendency might be overcome.

The campaign for the national offices is interwoven this year with the senatorial candidacies. Senator George H. Moses (R), an administration stalwart, is opposed by former Gov. Fred H. Brown (D), who was a leader in Roosevelt's campaign for convention delegates in 1932.

Economic issues and interest in the opposing platforms of the two parties for dealing with prohibition stand out as campaign issues.

New Hampshire this year has four electoral votes as formerly.

Michigan's vote for President in 1928:
Hoover—965,396.
Smith —396,762.

Michigan has cast its vote for every Republican candidate for the presidency since John C. Fremont 1856, with the exception of 1912, when it gave its vote to Theodore Roosevelt, Progressive.

Sizable as was Herbert Hoover's majority in 1928, it fell somewhat short of that given Calvin Coolidge, who received 874,631 votes against 152,238 for John W. Davis.

In the state elections of 1930, Wilber M. Brucker (R.) defeated William A. Comstock (D.) by a vote of 483,990 to 357,664, and in the same year Senator James Couzens (R.) was re-elected by a majority of 464,820.

Prohibition has been an issue of major interest in the current campaign, and the state is to vote November 8 on a proposed constitutional amendment which would wipe out existing bone-dry legislation.

In the primaries this year more than 300,000 votes were cast for the Democratic candidates for governor. This was more than 40 per cent of the total cast in both primaries and was hailed by Democrats as an encouraging sign. Republicans, however, held that a contest for the gubernatorial nomination had brought out the Democrats' full party strength.

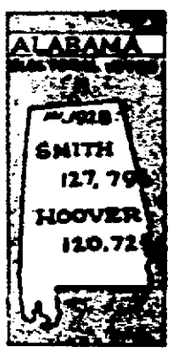
Michigan has 19 electoral votes this year, instead of its former 15.

Alabama's vote for President in 1928:
Smith —127,796.
Hoover—120,725.

Alabama, which had been counted with the "solid South" since reconstruction days, remained in the Democratic ranks in 1928 by the narrow margin of 7,071 votes.



The large Republican vote in that year followed a campaign of unusual intensity in which Senator J. Thomas Heflin led an active campaign against his party's nominee. Alfred E. Smith and his views on prohibition formed the major issue in pre-election debates.

Senator Heflin was barred from the party primary in 1930 for his activities in support of Herbert Hoover, and as a candidate for re-election on an independent ticket, opposing John H. Bankhead, was defeated by a majority of 50,033 votes. Heflin charged election frauds. His contest was defeated in the Senate.

The prohibition planks of the two major parties again form a major issue in this year's campaign. Alabama long having been considered among the staunchest of dry states. Interest in this issue, however, seems to be equalled by interest in the opposing programs for dealing with the country's economic situation.

Alabama's vote in the electoral college has been reduced by reapportionment this year from 12 to 11.

Life's Summing Up

Life is constantly weighing us in very sensitive scales, and telling every one of us precisely what his real weight is to the last grain of dust.—Lowell.

Current Stealing Case Is Settled

John Dunn of 69 West 90th street, New York city, a summer resident on the Sawkill-Zena Road, was apprehended Saturday, October 1, by State Troopers and was brought before Justice of the Peace Harry Siemsen, Town of Kingston, on complaint filed by the Central Hudson Gas & Electric Corporation for stealing electric current.

Dunn was charged with petit larceny to which he pled guilty and was finally fined by Justice Siemsen.

In the State of New York current stealing is a misdemeanor subject to a fine of $500 or six months imprisonment or both.

The Central Hudson Gas & Electric Corporation is required to report such parties tampering with its equipment or stealing gas or electricity. All employes of the company are continually on the lookout for current and gas stealing or tampering with the company's property in order that such offenders shall be punished accordingly.

Boy Hurt in Fall From a Guy Wire

Workmen have removed the upper half of the flagpole on the Kingston High School grounds and the remaining half is braced by a long guy wire. Since the wire has been placed boys have been making a practice of hanging onto the wire.

Monday night about 8:30 o'clock while John Bouton, 14, of Chambers street, was hanging on the wire he suddenly lost his grip and fell to the ground. He was rushed to the Kingston Hospital in the police car, where it was found he had sustained a slight concussion of the brain.

Today the condition had cleared up and he was apparently in good condition at the hospital.

Several other boys, it is said, were also hanging on to the wire at the time young Bouton fell.

Huge Quantity of Liquor to Be Made

Washington, Oct. 4 (AP).—Dr. James M. Doran, commissioner of industrial alcohol, expects soon to issue permits for manufacturing 2,000,000 gallons of medicinal liquor—the third batch authorized since national prohibition.

Announcing yesterday that the liquor would be made, Doran indicated the permits would be issued within a short time, as warehouses now supplying this demand have applied to meet future needs.

The warehouses notified him production this year would be necessary to have the whiskey properly aged by the time the existing stock of less than 10,000,000 gallons runs low. Five years is required to age the whiskey under Federal regulations.

Salvation Army To Stage Drive

The annual drive to raise $5,000 for the home relief work of the Salvation Army will be inaugurated on October 8 and continued until October 15. Judge Joseph M. Fowler has again consented to head the drive and is busy selecting his corps of workers.

This drive is made annually by the Salvation Army and the money raised is used in carrying on the home service work of the Army among the needy of the city.

TWO BOATS LEASED FOR WINTER SERVICE

Two Fall River Line boats have been chartered for all-winter navigation between New York and Albany, it was announced yesterday by the McAllister Steamboat Company, lessees of the Hudson River Night Line. One of the boats, the Middletown, arrived yesterday morning and returned last night.

The McAllister Company, it also was learned, has extended an option on its operating contract to the end of the month. Another extension then is expected to the end of the year.

UNIVERSAL

COAL DISCOUNT ANNOUNCEMENT

The approach of cold weather brings the matter of heating the home into great importance. The household budget will soon be called upon to provide for an additional burden that was not present during the warm Summer months. How to arrange for this will be a problem of many families.

WE STAND READY TO HELP YOU KEEP YOUR HOME WARM THIS WINTER AND SAVE YOU 80 CENTS A TON ON YOUR FULL REQUIREMENTS PURCHASED FROM THIS TIME UNTIL NEXT APRIL.

Instead of filling your bins—which would necessitate the payment of a considerable amount within 30 days in order to earn the 80 cents a ton discount—we stand ready to spread deliveries over the Winter to permit you to take your coal in such amounts as you can conveniently pay for before the discount period expires.

Of course, this puts an added burden on us, for we will have to make more trips to your home, but we are willing to assume this expense as our contribution to help you meet the abnormal conditions now prevailing.

In order to make this plan possible, we are not able to grant credit beyond thirty days in any case; therefore, at the time you place your order, tell your coal dealer to deliver such an amount as you can conveniently pay for in 30 days.

WEST SHOKAN.

West Shokan, Oct. 3.—Wednesday's heavy rain seemed worth a million at least to residents about the locality who due to the continued dry weather have been hard put for water. Although the downfall did not last long enough to afford more than temporary relief, the dry spell was broken and further storms are apt to be coming along soon.

The pumpkin vine frost and a skim of ice which made winter quilts a necessity Friday night appears to have been pretty general, although local damage, except to very tender foliage, was not severe.

Several good housewives have taken advantage of the sale on jelly glasses at several stores in Kingston. Dozens of glasses of grape, apple, peach and plum jell have been stored away on shelves in the cellar.

Some pointers for lawmakers were given Thursday evening at the public welfare meeting held in Kingston by Judge Henry Winchell of Olive Bridge, who was a representative of the Olive town board. Mr. Winchell spoke in regard to the unbearable provisions of the workmen's compensation law as affecting the small scale employer which he contended added to the unemployment situation in rural communities.

Oscar Dudley of Brown Station and Lester B. Davis of Olive Bridge attended the Grahamsville Fair on Friday. William Jordan of Brodhead made the trip on Wednesday but was keenly disappointed to find that the fair had been rained out for that day.

Mr. and Mrs. Burr K. Elmendorf of Shokan were business callers in West Shokan Heights on Wednesday afternoon.

Mrs. Anthony Massimo of West Shokan Heights called on Mrs. Watson Bishop on her return trip from the mail box on Thursday afternoon.

Passers by note a decidedly marked improvement to the William Morrison place at the foot of Traver Hollow hill since a general cleanup of the property was started last week. The work is in charge of Paul James of Shokan, who is assisted by Allen Terwilliger and Sylvester Wells.

A very delightful evening, is the report among patrons at the Rebekah's evening of games party held Wednesday, September 28, in Olive Bridge hall.

Frank Haver of Mt. Tremper, well known horsehoer, was a business caller here on Thursday.

The Sicari family, who have been staying at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William V. Colange, have moved into the Winkler cottage on Main street. This is the first time it has been occupied since its renovation by the Winkler brothers in the spring of 1928.

Mr. and Mrs. Shepard Bell of Main street were callers at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Martin J. Every of Traver Hollow on Friday afternoon. Mrs. Every is not feeling well at the present writing.

The D. W. S. brush cutting gang is trimming up the roadsides in great shape. The brush is collected in trucks, after being cut, and is then hauled away to be burned. This work certainly adds a marked improvement.

On Wednesday afternoon Mrs. Lauren Healey of Main street was a social caller at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Martin J. Every of Traver Hollow. Mrs. Healey was a former near neighbor during the period that Mr. Healey was employed as caretaker on the Ross W. Lynn estate.

Henry Boice of Phoenicia has recovered from his recent illness and is visiting at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Charles Healey, of West Shokan Heights.

Henry Bell of Brodhead Heights, well known truckman and business farmer, had the misfortune recently to cut his left leg quite severely while starting to cradle a field of buckwheat which he intended harvesting on shares for his neighbor, Raymond Miller. After applying first aid to the injury Mr. Bell courageously resumed his labors.

Genial Judge David Windram of Shokan called on his fellow town board member, Judge Fred L. Weidner, of North Main street, Thursday afternoon.

The well known Jordan cider mill at West Shokan Heights is now open for business. For several seasons this was the only press operating in this locality, during which time a very extensive custom trade was carried on.

One day recently while Samuel Casnellan was walking through the woods near the Watson Hollow Inn, his eyes fell upon a scene which was really amazing. There rolling among the autumn leaves near a big tree were two deadly foes, a chipmunk with ruffled tail and a small garter snake. The fight was not a lasting one, for within a few minutes the chipmunk hit the head of the garter snake stick and climb. The victorious chipmunk then continued his daily task of gathering nuts, regardless of having been interrupted by his unwelcome visitor.

Attractive terms

For installing the complete G-E Oil Furnace in your home, ready to deliver heat at low cost to your present heating system. No "extras" to buy . . . everything is included—burner, boiler, hot water heater, all controls, oil tank, and installation.

IT'S so revolutionary in appearance, you perhaps have wondered just how the new G-E Oil Furnace operates, and whether or not it will give you completely automatic home heat at a saving.

For your convenience, our showroom will be open every evening this week. Come in and learn at first hand the big difference between this complete coordinated unit and conventional oil-burning attachments.

Engineers have heralded the new G-E as a great advance over any oil burner attachment. Actual installations have shown fuel savings over previous types of heating of from 10% to 33%. These savings go even higher when the cost of year-round domestic hot water is included.

Think of it! Hot water supplied to your storage tank 365 days a year for only a few dollars a month!

This hot water feature is just one indication of the completeness of the new G-E. You buy no extras. Controls, oil tank, installation—all are included in the low price you pay. That price calls for only a small down payment, the balance on dollar-stretching terms.

If you want trouble-free, completely automatic heating at a saving, see the new G-E. Remember, it is not a collection of parts, not a new-fangled attachment, but a complete unit made and guaranteed by one responsible company—General Electric Company, Air Conditioning Dept., 120 Broadway, N.Y.C.

FASHIONS By ELEANOR GUNN

Hats Continue to Reveal Brow and Hair

Copyright, 1932, by Fairchild.

The model illustrated at left from Blanche et Simone is of ruby soleil. The crown is elaborately tucked in front, the lines brought to the turned-up brim, which is held by a self pleated detail. The turban, one of Suzy White's, is black felt, arranged in strips going in opposing directions. The self bow idea is used, caught by a coral and chromium ornament.

The 1932 Peek-a-Boo Ventilator

New York—Ventilating systems are being installed in some of the new model dresses. Those that are up to the neck in wool have air spaces injected, as may be seen from the sketch. These are the modern application of the old peek-a-boo idea.

Evening dresses are made that way also. When you have your back up, as you will if you follow the latest trend in evening dresses, you may be glad of these open spaces that are decorative and cooling also.

Judging from the enthusiasm with which designers have attacked the neckline, one might infer that it was a recent discovery and that heretofore necklines were left more or less to work out their own salvation. If that was so—then they have. Most of them have become very ecclesiastical. There are nun's collars, bishop's collars, monk's collars, cowls and ever so many things that will make you think of either chapel or of vast cathedrals. The really nicest part of is, that one is not expected to live up to them, or to even wear them excepting when in the mood. They belong to the growing army of detachables and may be worn or not as one likes. Like a good little clerical collar should, they fasten at the back.

The frock sketched bears an Augustabernard label and she has disregarded the accepted theory that a gown should be made of two materials or colors or at least trimmed. The green morocain crepe which makes this frock calls for no assistance. It has a decorative and new-looking scarf and a sash which may be regulated to whatever level the waistline reaches at that day. You will just have to do what you can about keeping track of its fluctuations, or, better still, anchor your sash where it will do you the most good. The fashion world is having the jitters over the opposing up and down waistline school, so while they are squabbling about it—decide the matter to your own satisfaction.

AN EASY TO WEAR FROCK

Copyright, 1932, by Fairchild.

Typical of the easy-to-wear crepe frock is the model sketched, of bright green morocain with its girdle coming from the sides and twisted around the back to tie at front at whatever height most becoming to the wearer. From Augustabernard.

Have You Donned Your Regimentals?

The regimental influence is one of the newest and most refreshing in new season fashions. It has an entirely different aspect from the military technique of a season or two ago.

This military characteristic ranges from the Cossack to the Continental, and offers opportunity to introduce color contrasts, as well as a chance to foster fashions that are gallant and wearable, such as a drum major's or a Cossack's coat, or a cross-band decoration.

DID YOU KNOW THAT—

The bi-fabric idea is exploited in coats. Vionnet's wool and satin coat has suggested many other combinations than the obvious one of fur and fabric.

The knitted costume has stepped out of the sports field and refuses longer to be restricted to it.

Galyak is much used for neckwear, as, for instance, a tailored cowl or a bow.

Fabric muffs take their place in fashion. Shirred velvet is next to fur in favor.

If you are wearing black or black-and, choose brown stockings and black shoes.

There are two blouse schools—one for the fitted and one for the loose, or bloused, type of bodice.

NERVOUS WOMEN

Take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

"I am so nervous it seems as though I should fly" . . . "Only nerves and all run down" . . . "I wish I were dead" . . . How often have we heard these expressions when the last bearable ounce of strength and endurance was no longer stored in the system.

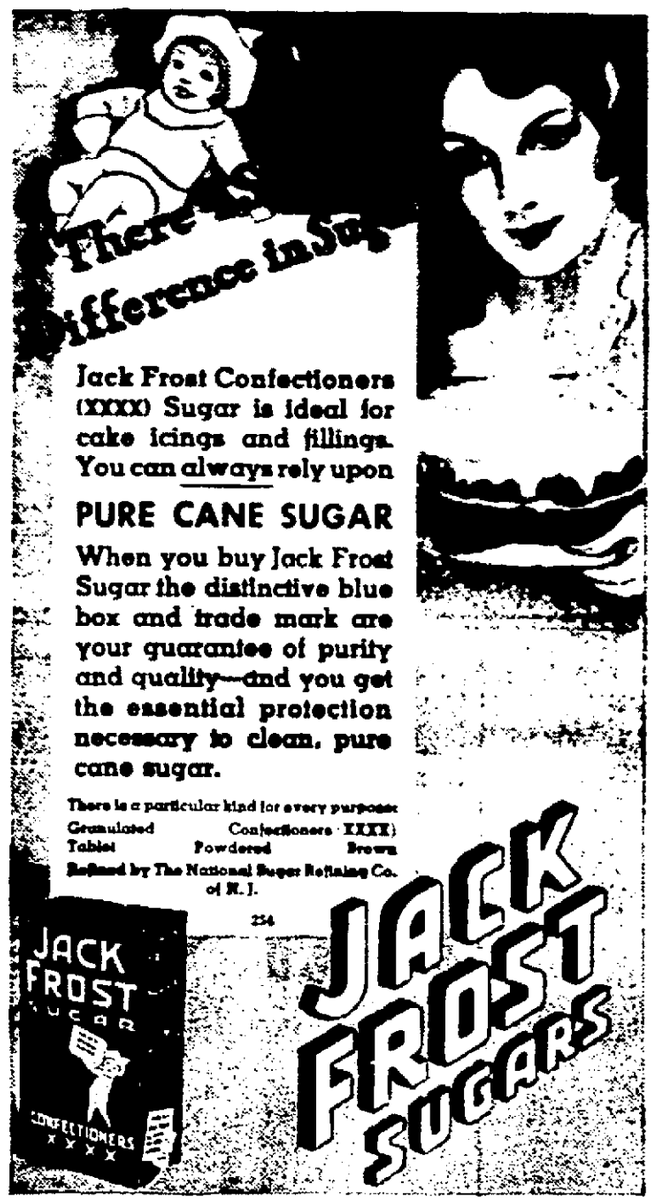
No woman should allow herself to suffer this condition if she can help herself. She should give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial. For nearly sixty years women have taken this wonderful tonic to give them renewed strength and vigor.

98 out of every 100 women who report to us say that they are benefited by this medicine. Buy a bottle from your druggist today . . . and watch the results.

For School Wear

This smart jersey ensemble of green, with black and white checked blouse, is sure to be a winner in the classroom and on the campus this fall. It is worn with a small green felt hat. The full sleeves are drawn together just below the elbow with narrow snug-fitting bands.

Plans for organizing cooperative markets in all northwest Arkansas towns for handling farm produce have been made.



Lesson to Tax Dodgers

Wealthy citizens of Selencia, in Mesopotamia, dodged their taxes 2,000 years ago, research shows. And look at those wealthy citizens now. What has happened to them? Every one of them has lost his property, that's what has happened. Let that be a lesson to you.—Exchange.

OUR DAILY PATTERN.

A Stylish and Comfortable Morning Frock.

7628. Here both waist and skirt portions boast of yoke sections cleverly shaped with pointed centers. Low placed plaits lend fulness to the skirt, and a V neck and short sleeves promise coolness. Designed in 6 sizes: 34, 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44 inches bust measure. Size 38 will require 3 ⅝ yards of 35 inch material. To finish with bias binding as shown in the large view, will require 5⅝ yards 1½ inch wide. The width at the lower edge of the dress with fulness extended is 1⅞ yard.

A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 15c in coin or stamps by the Pattern Department, The Freeman, Kingston, N. Y. Be sure to state the size wanted.

GAS BUGGIES—Everything is Relative.

AN OPPORTUNITY

For Modernizing NOW with payment deferred until--APRIL 1933

THE most liberal plan for the purchase of important home appliances that has ever been offered—is the Spring Terms Plan now available through local electric or gas appliance merchants.

The "Home Season" begins now

THE Fall season, with its entertaining, and greater use of the home, is the time when major improvements for easier living are most appreciated. Yet it may also be the season of unusually heavy expenses in other directions. It is the purpose of the Spring Terms Plan to bring together the opportunity for home improvement and the need for it.

Enjoy conveniences now--Pay in the spring

DECIDE on the particular gas or electric modernizing service you wish to have installed. Pay only the modest initial payment. You may use the customary convenient budget payment plan, but the first monthly payment will not be due until it is billed, with your electric bill, in APRIL 1933!

Water Heaters--Refrigerators--Ranges

THE appliances that will do the most for you are included under this special purchase plan; ranges that cook for you when you are far from the kitchen; refrigeration that needs no attention; water-heating that makes short-cuts in your housework and keeps hot water always ready for family comfort and complete hospitality.

Buy from the Dealer you Select

MAKE your own choice of type and make of appliance, and buy from the dealer you prefer. All reliable appliances are financed under this deferred payment plan, and it is being used by all established appliance merchants in the city and vicinity.

...RA OF "OUR SCHOOL" AT ...SE RIDGE TO LAKE MOHONK

While the district teachers met in ...ference at Ellenville last Friday, "Our School" celebrated the ...ored holiday by a visit to Lake Mo...onk. Only a few of the pupils had ...sited this mountain lookout, al...though it is an outstanding land...mark of this particular countryside.

The trip up the mountain was ...de by automobile to Mountain ...se, Mohonk's outpost of motor ...affic. From here the more ener...etic of the pupils chose to hike the ...ree miles to the hotel - picnic grounds, while those of lesser ...ppetite enjoyed the novelty of driving to their destination in the good old three-seated horse-drawn vehicles provided by the hotel. The swings at the picnic ground proved to be the high peak of attraction—so much so, that many a lunch-box was slighted in their favor.

After lunch the entire school, escorted by Miss Alberta Davis and Mrs. Ashton Hart, climbed to Skytop to view the panorama of the outlying Catskill countryside. The pleasurable outing ended with cocoa hospitably served at the Laurels by Mrs. Francis Smiley, after which "Our School" turned its weary legs towards home.

Kingston: "Blessed Event." Lee Tracy, who has been playing the role of a newspaper man in so many pictures it is difficult to remember them, rises to the top of the film ladder in this talkie of a fast working, gilb newspaper columnist who has such a nose for news that he can print the blessed events of society people long before they occur. His column lives scandal, breathes scandal, and he dishes the dirt because the public loves it. In the course of the picture, the working methods of night clubs, racketeers and gangsters all get their share of attention. It is red hot melodrama with a thrilling plot, and some fine acting on the part of the cast. Lee Tracy is perfect as the newspaper columnist, and the work of Mary Brian and Richard Powell is above the average. Fast moving and exciting entertainment.

Orpheum: "Lady and Gent" and "Under 18." The first is the best story that George Bancroft has been given in some time, and Wynne Gibson makes a perfect screen partner. It's the story about a drunken, broken down prize fighter, and how he comes back from the bottom of the heap. "Under 18," is a story of love, business, and comedy with Marian Marsh, Warren William, Regis Toomey, and Anita Page.

Broadway: "Vanishing Frontier," Johnny Mack Brown, Evelyn Knapp, Raymond Hatton, and Zazu Pitts are a few of the many players in this action filled drama of an American Robin Hood of the plains who smilingly relieves the rich of their money so that he can help the less fortunate. It's unbelievable entertainment, but full of thrills, laughs, and romance.

Tomorrow.

Kingston: Same.

Orpheum: "Daddy Long Legs." The familiar stage and screen play returns again in talkie form, with Warner Baxter and Janet Gaynor heading the cast. It is well directed, superlatively acted entertainment, and its appeal will go to both young and old.

Broadway: Same.

Shriners Will Hold Dinner Thursday

The big get-together dinner which the Kingston Shriners' Association will hold Thursday evening at the Stuyvesant Hotel at 8 o'clock, promises to be a big success as a large number of Shriners from this city and surrounding territory will attend.

Every Shriner living in Ulster and Greene counties has been extended an invitation to attend. There will be no charge for the dinner and no funds will be solicited. The evening will be devoted entirely to the election of officers and talking over of plans for the fall and winter.

The association has tried to reach every Shriner in this district, but feels there may be some whom they have missed in which case they are urged to mail a post card addressed to the Kingston Shriners' Association, Kingston, stating that they will attend. Any Shriner, who has not already signified his intention to attend is urged by the committee to do so at once in order that proper arrangements may be made.

The dinner will be entirely informal and a fine social evening is promised.

Annual barn-warming dance is held for students at the University of Arkansas.

Financial and Commercial

New York, Oct. 4 (AP).—Traders were evidently encouraged by firmness of the cotton market, and the drying up of selling in shares in Monday's trading. For the most part, however, traders were content to mark time.

Gains of 1 to more than 2 points appeared in a wide assortment of issues, including a number of the rails, which were under pressure yesterday. Issues up around 2 points included Union Pacific, American Telephone, Allied Chemical, Case, U. S. Steel, Corn Products, and Auburn, while those up 1 or more included New York Central, Southern Pacific, Du Pont, Consolidated Gas, American Water Works, American Tobacco "B," American Can, Sears, Westinghouse, General Foods, Proctor and Gamble and others. Oils and coppers were all but neglected.

Most brokers reported that public participation in the market had all but vanished of late. There was a tendency to look to the principal commodity markets for clues as to the trends of shares. Freight car loadings were also awaited with keen interest, in view of the fact that the seasonal peak is usually reached around this time of year. Santa Fe's report, virtually duplicating that of the previous week, failed to provide a basis for estimating a further gain for the Class 1 carriers in the aggregate. Crude oil production for last week, as preliminarily estimated, showed little change. Fresh curtailment is being widely advocated in oil circles.

Quotations given by Parker, McElroy & Co., members, N. Y. Stock Exchange, 120 Broadway, New York City; branch office, Stuyvesant Hotel.

Negligence Case In Supreme Court

In Supreme court this morning an action to recover damages in negligence was taken up for trial. Louis Fandino and his wife seek to recover damages from Edward Klemm and others, operators of the Saugerties-Kingston bus line, for the death of their 3½ year old son who was injured fatally by one of the Saugerties-Kingston buses at the Glasco four corners on October 4, 1930. The action also names the driver, Mr. Vedder, as a defendant.

According to the plaintiff's story the little child was at home with his sister upstairs when they saw a bus coming from Kingston on which their father was returning home. They left the house, crossed the road and went to meet their father. Plaintiff alleges that the two children had safely reached the side of the road where the bus from Kingston was discharging passengers when another bus of the same line came down the road from Saugerties enroute to Kingston and swerved to the side of the road and struck the little lad who had gone with his sister Angelina to meet their father. The lad was injured. At the Benedictine Hospital where he was taken it was found he suffered a fractured skull and internal injuries and later died. The accident happened about 5 o'clock in the afternoon and the lad died that same evening.

The defendant's story differs. The defendant claims that the bus was being operated at a reasonable speed and that as it was passing the lad came through the gate from his home and evidently was intent on crossing the street where the other bus was discharging passengers. At that time the Kingston bound bus had passed the stopped bus some distance. The contention of defendant is that the lad ran into the right side of the bus and was injured. The driver of the bus alleges that he saw the lad come out running and swerved his bus to the side of the road in an effort to avoid striking the lad but that it was impossible. It is the contention of the defendant that the accident was unavoidable.

Lester R. Smith of Catskill appears for plaintiff and Andrew J. Cook for defendants.

KINGSTON NOW HAS "PHYSICIANS' EXCHANGE"

Because the doctor of Kingston are up-to-date in every way, what is known as "The Physicians' Exchange" such as is in operation in the other Hudson river towns has been inaugurated in Kingston.

If a person calls their physician and gets no answer from office or home, they may at once call 2098 and their doctor will be located for them by the Exchange, thus saving time for the person in need of the physician and being of marked advantage to all physicians belonging to the Exchange. This Exchange will be in operation 24 hours a day and already some 20 physicians are members. It is expected that many others will shortly become members.

The public is advised to put the number of the Physicians' Exchange alongside that of their own physician, in order that the Exchange may be reached as quickly as possible. The number is 2098, but will not be listed in the telephone book until a new book is published.

BLAME WITCHCRAFT FOR CRIME WAVE IN NOVA SCOTIA

Country Terrorized and Police Baffled; Famous Detective in Charge.

Simpson's Corners, N. S.—Murder, arson, robberies with violence, together with deeds of malice, continuing over a long period and baffling the best brains of the Royal Canadian mounted police, have left the surrounding country in what approaches a state of terror.

Belief by large numbers of people that a "witch doctor" has been responsible for much of the trouble adds to the general state of unrest.

So great has the list of unsolved crimes become that mounted police headquarters at Ottawa has transferred the famous Detective-Sergeant S. L. Warrior to Nova Scotia to take charge of criminal investigations.

Began With Murder.

Commencing with the murder of Lem Smith at Pleasant Harbor last December, crime has followed crime. Reports of robberies, crimes of violence and arson have become common, and whispers of witchcraft are heard.

One has been solved. Naan Smith, charged with the murder of Lem Smith, is now under death sentence at the Bridgewater jail.

When Myles Simpson was found dead at his home here, the circumstances surrounding his death led superstitious folk to believe he had been the victim of witchcraft.

An aged postmaster was held up by masked robbers, his safe rifled, and his home set on fire to cover their getaway.

Other holdups followed, arson became common, while crime in general flared up all over what had formerly been one of the most peaceful, law-abiding districts in Nova Scotia.

Home Burns, Man Gone.

The home of William Veniot, aged resident, was burned to the ground, and it was thought he had perished in the flames. Search of the ruins failed to reveal any trace of his remains, however, and deep mystery surrounds both the fire and his disappearance.

Interest in the wave of crime, and stories of witchcraft have aroused province-wide interest and developments are eagerly awaited everywhere.

Swimmers Flee From Mackerel, Then Catch 'Em

New York.—Schools of mackerel swarmed into the bay at Long Beach in such numbers that they crowded human swimmers onto the shore.

In retaliation the swimmers turned fishermen and—with lines, baskets, tin cups, blankets or bare hands—took the uninvited guests into camp and home for dinner.

The invasion, which started about noon and continued until evening, was the most noticeable in the mile stretch west of Joe's Pier, New York avenue.

There the water was black with the fish. So dense were the mackerel that fishermen, throwing in lines in an attempt to lure them into biting, caught them instead, by snagging them in the bodies with the hooks.

Old timers said the hordes that came in to spawn were the largest seen at the resort in twenty years.

House Haunted by Spy Mata Hari Is for Sale

Vincennes, France.—The mysteriously haunted house of Old English architecture, once the property of Mata Harin, beautiful Oriental dancer and spy, who was executed in Vincennes, France, 16 years ago, is for sale in Paris but no one seems to want to buy it.

The house is located near the Seine river in Neuilly and has been the cause of many trips from the French capital by tourists. Its only occupant at present is an old Russian, who takes care of the property but does not live in the main part.

"Begging" Babies

Bobby, aged three, had been ill and could not have his usual outings because of that and inclement weather. One day he looked out of the window, then turned to me and said wistfully, "There are two mammas 'begging' their babies." Two neighbor women had passed with their baby carriages.—Chicago Tribune.

Blood Pressure Is Now Normal

"Never Felt Better In My Life" Kansas Woman Asserts.

If you are fat and have high blood pressure read this letter from Mrs. E. S. R. of Fredonia, Kansas—then use your own judgment. It was written January 1, 1932.

"The reason I am taking Kruschen Salts is: I was overweight, I naturally was sluggish in every way. I had high blood pressure and was so nervous I did not enjoy myself. I could not sleep and day after day I spent in bed with headaches. I had tried everything I ever heard of to remove fat from my body and nothing did me any good.

"I read so much in the papers about Kruschen Salts but to myself it was like all the rest, but I finally decided to try it. And Sept. 20, 1931 I started taking Kruschen and dieting as you suggested.

"I have lost 30 lbs. and I can honestly say I never felt better in all my life. I sleep fine and my blood pressure is normal. My nerves are also better. I have recommended Kruschen Salts to lots of people and I know several are taking them with good results."

A jar of Kruschen Salts that costs but little lasts 4 weeks and can be obtained at McBride Drug Stores or any drug store in the world.

Impressive Union Prayer Service

An impressive prayer service was held at Trinity Lutheran Church last evening beginning the series of union prayer services being held by the Rondout churches observing the national "Week of Penitence and Prayer." Over 200 were in attendance and many testified as to the devotional and inspiring nature of the service. The service was conducted by the pastor of the church, the Rev. William Freiseh while a short sermon was preached by the Rev. O. E. Brandorff, pastor of the Lutheran Church of the Redeemer. In connection with the regular vesper service the historic Bidding Prayer was used in which prayers are asked in behalf of the Christian Church and its workers; for those in authority; for a deliverance from the error, disease and various tribulations of the world; and for the blessing of the fruits of the earth.

The choir of the church rendered an anthem accompanied by the organist, Roger Baer Schwartz. Francis Phillips sang a baritone solo.

Speaking on the topic assigned for the day "Penitence" the Rev. Mr. Brandorff compared the present depression to the depression which the people of Judah experienced. Under the reign of Uzziah, Judah had enjoyed a period of prosperity unequalled by any since the day of Solomon. But with the prosperity there also came greed, political corruption, oppression, immorality and religious formalism. When as a result of its sin Judah was almost hopelessly humiliated some of the people were ready to accuse God of having deserted them or of having lost His power to save. Thereupon the prophet Isaiah said, "Behold, the Lord's hand is not shortened, that it cannot save; neither his ear heavy, that it cannot hear; but your iniquities have separated between you and your God and your sins have hid His face from you, that He will not hear."

Pastor Brandorff added, "They were suffering not because God had deserted them or become impotent, but because they had deserted God. We, today, are experiencing a depression not because God has deserted us or become impotent, but because men have deserted God to worship the idols of money, pleasure, etc., and if we would expect an improvement of conditions we must repent and return unto the Lord. Unfortunately many people do not know what true repentence means. True repentence includes an acknowledgment of wrong-doing. It includes furthermore a sincere sorrow for evil done. Mere sorrow for wrong done is not repentence. One must not only feel sorry for having done wrong, but also hate his sin, and hate it so much that he will forsake it. The trouble with many people is that they do not hate their sins enough. This explains the reason why they do that which they know they ought not to do and are ashamed of. They do not sufficiently hate that sin to forsake it."

The speaker then pointed out that the word we use to express the idea of repentence is the Latin word meaning "being sorry again." The original Greek means "Change of mind." To repent then means to so despise and forsake our sin as to henceforth live a changed life.

Pastor Brandorff also pointed out that there was an error in using the word "Penitence" as the topic for the evening instead of the word Repentence, for these two words are not synonyms. "Penitence means sorrow for having done wrong, but with no feeling of self-condemnation or change of character or conduct. Repentence, however, means a complete change of mind and a turning from sin. It means "right about face." If we have been walking the way of the transgressor we must "right about face" to walk the way of God."

"Repentence," the speaker added, "naturally then includes a turning to God for forgiveness. Mere remorse leads men to despair as in the case of Judas. True repentence leads men to faith, as in the case of St. Peter. And when God forgives He "gives" of Himself. He not only overlooks our sin. He also helps us to overcome our sin, that we may live as new creatures."

Pastor Brandorff suggested that before people asked God for blessings it would be well to ask themselves whether or not they have thus truly repented, particularly concerning their sins of omission which Stevenson called "our damning sins." "Have you broken the First Commandment by omitting to love God with all your heart, and with all your soul and with all your mind?" asked the speaker. "Have you been so preoccupied with business and pleasure that you have not had time to serve God? Have you been so selfishly absorbed in your own comfort and luxury that you have omitted to render an offering of gratitude to God of Service, self or substance? Have you come to this prayer service simply because of duty and not because of an eagerness to shut out the world and be in the presence of God?" Furthermore, asked the speaker, "Have you broken the Second Commandment by omitting to love your neighbor as yourself, refusing to deny yourself in order to help another in need; refusing to be merciful unto the unworthy; refusing to be lovely to the unlovely?"

"We are all utterly unworthy of being called the children of God. As Prodigal Sons we have dishonored our Father yet we are reminded of the story of the Prodigal Son in which Jesus says that when the repentant Prodigal Son was yet a great way off his father saw him and had compassion and ran and fell on his neck and kissed him, and restored him to sonship. Thus Jesus pictures our Heavenly Father waiting anxiously for the sinner to come home to restore unto him the joy of salvation and life abundantly. Remembering how hard the way of sin is perhaps you tonight, will come to yourself like the Prodigal Son and say, 'What a fool I have been trying to feed on the husks of worldliness which have given me no satisfaction while my Heavenly Father waits to bless me with His heavenly gifts.'"

The prayer services continue this evening when a service will be held at the Rondout Presbyterian Church. The pastor of the church, the Rev. James Armstrong, will be in charge of the service while the speaker will be the Rev. F. H. Deming, D. D., pastor of Trinity M. E. Church. His topic will be "Confession." The services will be no longer than an hour, beginning at 7:30.

A War Without Gunfire.

Fort George G. Mead, Md.—A mimic war being fought near here by the regular army units of the third corps area this week is a silent affair. The lack of blank ammunition is laid by the officers to the federal economy program. Only the desultory firing from a machine gun troop on Dead Man's Hill is heard above the droning of airplanes and roar of tanks.

Pickin' Cotton.

Goldsboro, N. C.—Ben Deans of Buck Swamp township, had unique ideas about celebrating his 73rd birthday. From sunup to sunset he picked 180 pounds, and his opponent, four times his junior, 184 pounds.

Walk On The Grass.

Washington, Pa.—"Please walk on the grass" signs appeared on the Washington and Jefferson College campus today. Previously the signs read "Keep off the grass." Dr. Ralph C. Jo, who lives in a little house of his own with tables, chairs and everything, is by far the most popular attraction at the zoo.

Dog Likes Jewelry.

Chicago—Being high-toned, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Perrie's Scotch terrier went in for jewelry in a big way, so much so that he rattled. The terrier is getting on nicely.

Dry Law Repealed.

Bronson, Sexton Draw In Championship Match

Favored by the weather man, who warmed things up nicely Monday, the promoters of the American Legion benefit boxing show put on their scrape last night before a crowd that jammed the outdoor arena on Broadway and West O'Reilly street to see a good bill of bouts featured by the middleweight championship contest between Eddie Sexton, the titleholder in the Amateur Federation of Sports Clubs, and Phil Bronson, Connecticut slugger.

The colored flash, who punches from all angles, did not have as easy a time with the easterner as with Johnny Raymond and Jackie Feldman, his foes in previous fights here. Bronson bored in constantly, crashing hard rights and lefts to the Brooklynite's midsection. The blows made Sexton seek cover, especially in the fifth round. In this frame, Bronson drove home two rights under the heart, making the negro groan. Phil was more aggressive than either Raymond or Feldman and kept Sexton traveling at top speed all through the six rounds.

Eddie, who specializes in counter fighting, tagged Bronson with stinging belts to the head whenever the opportunity presented itself as the rugged Frenchman crouched and aimed his body blows. Sexton made Phil respect his punching ability but could not stop him from boring in with his devastating body attack.

The officials called the match a draw, pleasing some of the patrons and dissatisfying others who were divided in their opinions concerning the result. Many cheered for Sexton, claiming he won the fight, while others picked Bronson and let their feelings be known when Announcer Samuel J. Riber gave out the official decision.

Following the bouts Matchmaker Doc Studer said he probably would rematch the two for the star bout on the next card of scrape scheduled for Monday night, October 10, at the Legion's outdoor show place.

The weights last night were Sexton 160, Bronson 162. Both will be lighter for their next meeting. Sexton's manager said his champion performs best at 156 pounds or so. Bronson's director said Phil will not be that light but his weight should be below 160.

Undoubtedly this match will pack the Legion stadium.

Emerson Defeated

Buddy Emerson, St. Remy lightweight, suffered a reverse from his winning stride at the hands of the clever little Otis Paradise of Brooklyn who substituted for Johnny Marello in the semi-final. The Glasco favorite was ill and could not go through with his match. He appeared in the ring though, showing remorse at not being able to carry on with Emerson to settle a draw that they fought earlier in the season.

A crafty ringman, Paradise got away from the right hand that has piled up a string of wins for Emerson and peppered him with a barrage of lefts to the face that had his left eye closed at the end of the fifth round when Referee Bill Singer called off the proceedings, awarding the decision to the visiting boxer. Paradise also got under Buddy's guard to settle some hard blows on his stomach and ribs. The St. Remy boy was helpless and at the mercy of Otis all during the scrap.

Paradise also holds a decision over Johnny Marello. Last night he weighed 130. Emerson 129.

Pincus Victorious.

Joe Pincus of this city, weighing 148 pounds, defeated Pedro Rodriguez, Brooklyn strong man, in the special six rounder. This bout showed plenty of action and some clever boxing on the part of Pincus at intervals. Joe fought a good fight while standing away and peppering Rodrigues with blows at long range, but when the Spaniard got close he punched Joe plenty. He cut him over the left eye in the fifth round and the local boy bled quite freely from the wound. But the cut was not severe enough for the referee to stop the punch-fest and Joe conducted a speedy attack in the sixth and final frame to cop the decision.

Trought Scores Kayo.

Jerry Trought, "the Orpheum Kid", entering the ring at 155, knocked out Joe Dailey of Waterbury, Conn., with a left to the solar plexus and a right to the chin in one minute and 20 seconds of the first round. Dailey weighed 150.

Joe Nagey, the "Mohican Kid", 137, was stopped by Joe Blume, 132, of Brooklyn, in 45 seconds of the second round. A left to the chin and right to the stomach won for the hard slugging southpaw from down the Hudson.

Sleight Wins.

Herbie Sleight, Kingston lightweight, in a four rounder packed with plenty of hard punching, defeated Kid Tony of New Paltz. He floored him in the second and third round and again in the last frame. At the count of five the bell rang ending the battling and saving Tony from a probable knockout.

In the curtain raiser Joe Bennings of Waterbury, Conn., defeated Tony Carr, Brooklyn bantamweight, in a close scrap of four rounds.

Joie Carpino, who started his boxing career in Kingston as a National Guard fighter, then went to New York and New Jersey where he did considerable boxing against pugilists of note, appeared at the Legion bouts and was introduced from the ring by Announcer Riber. Joe, who is a brother of Johnny Carpino, former lightweight champion of the Hudson valley, received a big hand. He's through fighting.

Judges at last night's fights were Harris Brown and J. Finnerty. George N. Brown was the timekeeper.

PUNTS and PASSES

Hanover, N. H.—Head Coach Jackson Cannell has distributed squared toed shoes to his Dartmouth kickers. They've been using pointed toes and missing most of the extra points after touchdowns, so Cannell decided on a change in equipment.

Cambridge, Mass.—Jack Crickard, one of Harvard's best halfbacks, is giving football the "go-by" just now. He's working out with his textbooks in preparation for an examination October 13 that will decide whether or not he will be eligible for football.

New York—The statisticians finally have worked out the yardage of Fordham's gains against Baltimore last Saturday. Three sets of Fordham backs made 20 first downs and gained 345 yards by rushing. Eleven of 15 passes were completed for a gain of 238 yards. The Rams punted only four times and averaged 54 yards.

New York—It's a far cry from 1890 and the first New York University-Rutgers game which Rutgers won, 72-0. The New Jersey school hasn't beaten N. Y. U. since 1925.

Plenty of Dynamite In Next Saturday's Football Schedule

By HERBERT W. BARKER.

New York, Oct. 4 (AP).—Trouble and more trouble looms for the nation's intercollegiate football teams as the season progresses into important sectional and intersectional tests.

If last week's results are to be taken as a criterion, the current campaign may break all records for upsets. The oldest inhabitant hardly can remember when the gridiron giants moved toward their second October engagements with Navy, Southern Methodist, Georgia, Texas, Maryland and California all beaten, and Yale tied.

And there's plenty of dynamite in next Saturday's schedule.

In the mid-west, the Big Ten plunges into the midst of conference competition with Michigan and Northwestern locking horns in the prime battle of the day. Northwestern scored 20 points in the last quarter to down Missouri on Saturday, 27-0, but the Wildcats will be prepared for fireworks at Ann Arbor in view of Michigan's surprising show of strength in turning back Michigan State, 26-0.

Wisconsin and Iowa, Minnesota and Purdue and Ohio State and Indiana will be matched in other Big Ten Frays.

"Big Six" to Start.

Notre Dame will open its season against the Haskell Indians and the "Big Six" conference schedule also will get under way.

In the East, Yale, tied by Little Bates, will have to show considerable improvement if the Elis hope to whip one of the best Chicago teams in years. Of the purely sectional games, leading engagements will pit Columbia against Princeton, Dartmouth against LaFayette, Fordham against Bucknell, Pitt against Duquesne and New York University against Rutgers. There will be a number of minor intersectional contests, such as Syracuse-Ohio Wesleyan, Army-Carleton, Cornell-Richmond, and George Washington-Alabama.

Georgia, beaten by Virginia Poly on Saturday, finds Tulane's mighty championship array next in its path. Their meeting at New Orleans tops the southern conference schedule.

Far Western Games.

The far western schedule includes Pacific coast conference games between Southern California and Oregon State, and Oregon and Washington, with California playing tough St. Mary's of Oakland and Stanford tackling Santa Clara.

SPORT SLANTS

By Alan J. Gould

(Associated Press Sports Editor.)

The closest any pitcher ever came to twirling a no-hit game in the world series was when Ed Ruelbach of the old Chicago Cubs held the White Sox to a single safe blow in the 1906 intra-city dispute for the baseball crown.

The White Sox were the "hitless wonders" in those days. They captured the American League pennant mainly on the skill of their defense and the ability of such pitchers as Walsh, White and others.

Herb Pennock, in the 1927 series, pitched perfect ball for the first seven innings of the third game, not permitting a Pittsburgh Pirate to reach first base, but he was touched for three hits in the last two innings. Pie Traynor, second man up in the eighth inning, after Pennock had set down 22 batsmen in order, delivered a solid single and scored on Barnhart's double.

Big George Earnshaw and Burleigh Grimes each added two-hit pitching performances to the list in the 1931 world series, which was marked by some of the finest hurling in many years. Both hits off Earnshaw, in the fourth game, were made by the then irrepressible Pepper Martin. One of the safe blows off Grimes, in the third contest, was a home run by Al Simmons in the ninth inning that deprived the spitball veteran of a shutout.

Only five other two-hit performances are on the world series list, including those of Ed Walsh of the White Sox and Mordecai Brown of the Cubs, both made in the 1906 series; Eddie Plank of the Athletics, Bill James of the Boston Braves and Waite Hoyt of the Yankees.

Freshman Stars

No baseball season in memory has been so replete as 1932 with the sensational performances of "freshman" pitchers.

It may be just a coincidence, or it may be due also to the influence and encouragement developed by the less lively ball, but the fact is the big leagues have fairly sparkled with great pitching by new men, including Weaver of the Senators, Allen of the Yankees, Brown of the Braves, Warneke of the Cubs, Dean and Carleton of the Cardinals, Mungo of the Dodgers, Holley and Hansen of the Phillies, and Freitas of the Athletics.

Allen and Warneke gained the unusual distinction in their first full season of topping the American and National League pitching list, respectively.

Weaver and Warneke both captured more than 20 games. Dean, despite his eccentric disposition revealed real pitching talent.

McGraw Denies Interest in Placing Team in Montreal

New York, Oct. 4 (AP).—If a National League baseball team is to be operated in Montreal next season, John McGraw knows nothing about it. And, so far as could be ascertained today, neither did anyone else.

Commenting on reports, current at Montreal, that he would head an organization seeking transfer of a National League franchise to the Canadian city, McGraw said:

"I am not interested in any deal placing a National League club in Montreal or anywhere else. There is no basis for such a report."

As the tale was told in Montreal, McGraw and some unnamed associates were seeking to purchase one of the league's franchises with the idea of moving it across the border. Mentioned in connection with this yarn were the St. Louis Cardinals but President Sam Breadon promptly announced the Cardinals were not for sale.

Another who knew "absolutely nothing" about the reports was J. Ernest Savard, president of the Montreal Royals of the International League.

Yankee Plans.

The world champion New York Yankees were back in town today for a few days before splitting up for the winter. Three members of the team planned marriage in the next few days, Sam Byrd with Rachael Smith, Birmingham, Ala.; Bill Dickey with Violet Arnold, Jackson Heights, and Vernon Gomez with June O'Dea, musical comedy actress.

The two Yankee "siege guns", Babe Ruth and Lou Gehrig, planned a little exercise in the open air as if their exertions since March were not enough. Ruth hoped to get in plenty of golf and Gehrig was looking forward to a series of fishing trips.

Girl Martyr's "Jewelry"

The jewelry Joan of Arc wore when she "embraced the saints" were small cheap rings. Her parents and one of her brothers had given them to her. Three crosses and the words "Jesus Maria" were on one of the rings, both of which Joan regarded as very precious.

Maroon Prepares For Schenectady

Coach G. Warren Kiss is putting the boys through their last week of practice before the first home game of the season Saturday afternoon on the Kingston Fair Grounds with Schenectady High School, a team that will undoubtedly have the strength equal to that of the eleven from Dorp High, a squad Kingston played from that city two years ago.

When a school has a large student body invariably there is a greater number of candidates and a better team. These Schenectady schools have the large student bodies and the good teams. Kingston defeated Dorp High, when the Maroon played them at Schenectady and came home with the big end of a 12-0 score.

Kingston hasn't locked horns with Schenectady since, and the upstate team is coming here to revenge and settle a feud that was started two seasons back. They say that it isn't the same school that Kingston played before, but that it's a new school in connection with the old with an independent team, flying under its own colors.

So what's in store. No one knows anything about records, outside of the fact that Middletown defeated a Schenectady team last Saturday by a 13-0 score but whether that's the same team that will play Kingston Saturday is another story. Still somewhere out of the electrical city is coming a squad that will play Kingston High and at present it can be called nothing but the "Mystery Eleven."

One of the assistant coaches of the local school saw the battle Saturday between the Middies and Schenectady and his opinion of the up staters wasn't commendable. He compared them with Monticello. "Schenectady against Middletown was like Monticello against us," he said.

You could deduct from this many things but let's take two. First, Middletown may have a first rate team like last season or second, Schenectady might be weaker than usual. Now which is which? And is this really the same team from Schenectady that Kingston is playing Saturday?

Perfect Caster

Frank Stee, expert casting-rod devotee of the Lincoln Park Casting club, Chicago, attained the utmost in his chosen sport when he scored a perfect 100 in the National Association of Scientific Casting Clubs tournament at Carnegie lake, Pittsburgh. This mark set a new world's record for the dry fly accuracy cast, being the first time that a perfect score has been made.

"Early to Bed" Still Best

After study covering several years, Professor Stoeckmann, director of the municipal lyceum at Duisberg, Germany, declared that the hours between 7 and 11:30 p. m. are not only "the healthiest and most profitable" for sleep, but they are also sufficient to maintain the body at its maximum efficiency during the day. Professor Stoeckman's sleep researches included persons of both sexes and of all ages.

To Decide On City League Series Tonight

A meeting of the City Baseball League will be held at the judge's chambers in the city hall tonight at 7:15 o'clock for the purpose of deciding on the date of the next game of the series for the championship of the circuit—if there is to be a next game. In the first playoff game for the pennant, the Knights of Columbus defeated the Forst Butchers 8-1. The second contest which was to have been played last Saturday did not materialize because Manager Herbie Mills of the Butchers could not get his team together for the occasion. As the weather is considered by some as unsuited to baseball it is doubtful whether the series will be continued.

MILTON.

Milton, Oct. 3.—Dr. A. C. Gervais and Miss Minnie Strohman have been busy the past week making the annual fall health examinations in the public schools in Milton. The work has now been completed for the present.

Henry Bailey small son of Mr. and Mrs. Winfield Bailey, underwent an operation Wednesday at Cornwall Hospital for the removal of a needle which had been broken off in the child's knee. The child, it seems fell and apparently only scratched his knee on a sharp instrument. Later the knee began to trouble him and it was found that there was part of a needle in the knee. It was removed at the hospital by Dr. Leary of Newburgh and Dr. A. S. Ferguson of Marlborough.

Lively Discussions at Taxpayers Meeting

were complaints that some were receiving relief although they owned property and had money in the bank, while others entitled to relief were not getting it. The discussion involved the question of publishing the names of those receiving relief. One member said he believed that "half of the number now getting relief would not if the names were published." President Terry agreed that "the taxpayers ought to know who was getting their money."

Former City Assessor George W. Moore said that he did not believe that the "names of worthy old people should be broadcast." He felt that those who knew of people who were receiving relief to which they were not entitled owed a duty to the organization to make the names public. He believed that the committee from the association could go to the board and get the names of those who were receiving relief; he was positive this information could be had for the asking.

Mrs. Bregman joined the discussion, giving a general account of her experiences trying to get action from officials. Her theory was that there should always be a committee from the association at meetings of the common council and she advised her hearers to "watch the supervisors and the aldermen." Said she, "they take too much privilege spending out money without asking us."

Max Reben called attention to the fact that relief had been given after investigation by both state and local investigators. He said he thought that those knowing of unworthy cases should be sure of their facts before making charges. He believed it would be wrong to publish names; he did not believe the law would permit it and doubted if the newspapers would publish them.

Says Mayor Was "Never Home."

The operations of the emergency relief next came in for an overhauling, the discussion being introduced by A. Haberstumpf, a resident of South Wall street. The speaker proved to be decidedly interesting and entertaining as he quoted a recent statement regarding "fearless administration" of affairs and a report that $6,000 was to be spent in improving South Wall street. He said that the sum of the work done so far consisted in ploughing up the street and then rolling it down, leaving it "worse than ever." Mr. Haberstumpf said that he had tried to see the mayor, but he was "never home." He had protested to Mr. Hornig, who, he said, admitted that it "wasn't right," and had referred him to someone else. He complained that there seemed to be a tendency to "pass the buck," but meanwhile the money was being wasted and things left worse than they were in the beginning. He claimed that he would have secured an injunction, except for the fact that he did not want to be responsible for putting men out of work.

Mr. Swart moved that the president appoint a committee, to consist of members not on any other committee, to make a special investigation of the emergency relief work. The president named as such committee Chauncey Lane, Schuyler C. Schultz and A. Haberstrumpf.

Water Board Rates

The question of water board rates brought up the final discussion of the evening. It was introduced by Mr. Moore, who spoke particularly of the extra charge made for garages, even though no faucets were installed and the property owner was already paying for hose privilege. His suggestion, concurred in by other members of the association, was that the property owner was paying for something he did not get.

Commissioner Reben explained that water rates had been established after a survey made some years ago and a schedule of charges believed necessary had been adopted. There might be some cases where a certain charge seemed unreasonable, but if a general change was made the loss in revenue would have to be made up somewhere else. As to the charge that many people kept their lawn hose running all night and that others were using hose for which they had no permit and that inspectors were being paid to control such matter, Mr. Reben said that there were in the city but two inspectors who were charged with the duty of looking after some 6,000 water users. He said that water rates would be very much higher if a sufficient number of inspectors were named to insure of no violations of the regulations.

Mr. Moore said that he had had no idea of "stirring up such a racket." He was simply objecting to a charge for something he did not get. That was the only "kick" he had. He believed that the water board was functioning 100 per cent and that Kingston had "one of the finest water departments in the state."

A committee consisting of Mr. Moore, Mr. Smedes and President Terry was named to meet with the water board and take up the question, following which the meeting adjourned.

Tips on CONTRACT

RAISING PARTNER'S PREEMPTIVE BID.

By Tom O'Neil.

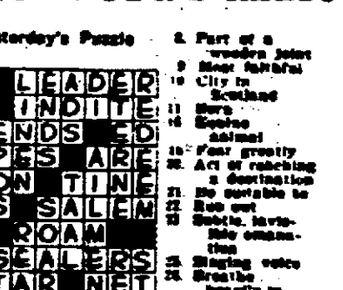
It takes a hand of great strength to overcall or raise a partner's preemptive game bid. Usually such an original bid is made on a hand of great length in one suit, a hand which would be useless with any other suit as trump or at no trump.

The bid ordinarily is an overbid. It is predicated on the assumption that several tricks in partner's hand will produce game and, at the worst, opponents will be deterred from entering upon a game contract which they can fulfill.

Necessarily the responding hand, unless of exceptional strength, passes a preemptive original bid. The only purpose of a raise or an overcall would be to invite slam.

In a deal at which the responding hand was well justified in an overcall, Orlo Robertson of New York was the declarer. The hand:

Robertson opened the auction with an offer of four hearts. West passed and north bid four no trump. North had a biddable club suit, but mention of it would hardly picture the general strength of the hand other than in hearts.



In addition it would have taken five clubs to overcall. East passed, and south, certain of no losses in hearts because of the seven tops, went to six hearts.

The slam can be made easily on any opening. A slam also is possible in no trump, but the count would not be so large in view of the heart honors. In addition a no trump slam bid would have a plunge in contrast to reasonable certainty about hearts.

Missionary Meeting.

The regular monthly missionary meeting for the month of October of the Free Methodist Church will be held in the church on Tremper avenue, between Downs and O'Neil streets, on Wednesday evening, October 5, at 7:45. At this meeting there will be the election of officers and an interesting and helpful program planned for the coming year.
